If you’ve ever seen the Logan family at one of the events in town, you’ve likely seen a foursome of blonde hair, faces plastered with smiles. Danielle and Steve Logan have made a beautiful life for their two children Lilah (7) and Tommy (4), and the smiles that you see today, are the positive outcome of the many struggles that they’ve faced along the way.

Danielle and Steve had only been married for three months, when Danielle (26) was woken in the middle of the night to find Steve (28), lying in the bathtub, in excruciating pain. After what was a normal night for the newlyweds, Steve had complained of a stomach ache, nothing out of the ordinary, as his stomach had bothered him on and off for years, and doctors often blamed the pain on indigestion, sending him home with quick-fix remedies. This time was different.

OUR Opinions

THE EARTH IS ON FIRE

As this is being written, reports indicate that the worst is yet to come for the people of Australia, whose land literally is burning up all around them.

The apocalyptic images of families being driven from their homes, wearing face masks and eye goggles because of the acrid smoke that is darkening the daytime sky, and then being evacuated by boat from the beaches, are something out of a science fiction film.

But now, in 2020, reality has caught up with science fiction.

The Australian bush fires are the apex of what has been a sad, sad year for our planet. The Australian fires already have destroyed about 15 million acres — an area almost as large as West Virginia, more than triple the area destroyed by the 2018 fires in California, and six times the size of the fires last summer in the Amazon.

The fires not only have rendered large areas of the continent uninhabitable for humans, but they also have killed incredible numbers of wildlife -- some reports estimate half a billion creatures have perished -- threatening some species with extinction.

The bush fires have killed 24 persons and are causing health issues for every person in their path, especially those with existing lung diseases. The air quality in Canberra, the capital city, on New Year's Day was the worst in the world thanks to the smoke cloud that is as wide as Europe and now envelops much of the Australian continent.

The problems attendant to the bush fires are not confined to Australia. New Zealand, which is more than 1,200 miles across the ocean, is enduring toxic air pollution levels. In addition, the carbon that is being released by the burning of the bushland will increase even further the carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere that are the principal cause of global warming and climate change.

The influence of a changing climate is now evident in each day's global weather pattern, according to a study published last week in Nature Climate Change.

The study employed a new technique to analyze daily patterns of temperature and moisture across the globe. It found that the locations of above and below average temperature and moisture have been distinct from natural variations on every single day for almost a decade.

The bottom line is simply this: The world is getting hotter day by day and therefore bringing a dramatic change to our climate and environment. Some things, such as the massive fires in Australia, are dramatic and noticeable. Others, such as the gradual melting of the glaciers, are subtle, but their effects on the degradation of the planet are just as devastating.

It should be apparent to every thinking person that we are getting very close to a point of no return in terms of climate change. However, with governments across the globe in the hip pockets of the special interests who are opposed to the drastic measures that are needed to prevent further degradation of the environment, it is difficult to be optimistic about the future of our planet.

SANTA SAYS THANK YOU

Dear Editor,

I would like to report another successful trip through the Town of Winthrop. It is such a pleasure to tour Winthrop prior to my trip around the world.

I would like to thank the Winthrop Firefighters Local 1070 for everything they do to make my trip possible. I would also like to thank the Winthrop Fire Dept., Police Dept., DPW, Auxiliary Police and anyone else that made my trip run smoothly. I would like to thank Dennis Boudrow for coming back after retirement to set up and ride along to make sure everything worked properly. I would also like to thank Firefighter Bill Vecchio for spending his last night before his retirement driving me on my trip around town. A big thank you to Mrs. Claus for her help and support. And finally a special thank you to the good people of Winthrop and their guests for their encouragement and great energy. Until next year, have a very happy, healthy, and prosperous New Year.

A GREAT YEAR FOR VETERAN SERVICES

Dear Editor

2019 has been a blessed year for Winthrop Veteran Services. From the many businesses to our residents, our Veteran Food Bank and Giving program has received so many donations. Some of the businesses who never stop giving are Webster First Credit Union, BlackStrap BBQ, CrossFit, and the Winthrop MarketPlace. There are so many of our residents that give every month to our Veterans — and this is so appreciative. One recent resident, and personal friend of mine is Holly S., who held her birthday party to support our Veterans. My Food Bank Volunteers, Keith, Bill, Joe, Jim, Gail, Heather, (and more) who come month after month. Another is the Constantino children, who have asked for foodbank donations instead of birthday gifts. My own family, who with a moment's notice, are there for our Veterans! These are only a few examples — there are SO MANY MORE!

Working in our beautiful little town by the sea has connected my department with so many other departments as well. We have such a strong bond between Winthrop Veteran Services, Winthrop Public Housing, the Senior Center, DPW, School Department and students, my amazing coworkers, both Fire and Police departments, and our Social Workers. We are all working together for the betterment of our residents. The Winthrop Emblem Club who are always present at our Services along with the yacht clubs and Churches in town. And of course, American Legion Post 146 members who actually sponsor all of our Veteran events and allow me unlimited access to the Legion Hall.

With 2020 coming, and so many more who may need assistance, it's always nice to know I have people who come through!

With so much gratitude and appreciation,

Roseann

VOTE WARREN FOR PRESIDENT

Dear Editor,

"Steadiness comes from character and commitment." I read this recently, and it reminded me of why I support Elizabeth Warren for President of the United States.

"Steadiness," another name for persistence, is something Elizabeth Warren has been commended for by her supporters and criticized for by her opponents.

Over the past nine years when I've met Elizabeth Warren and heard her speak, read her books "A Fighting Chance" and "This is Our Fight: The Battle to Save America's Middle Class," or viewed her on TV; I'm ever impressed that she is unwaveringly committed to "leveling the playing field," not just for the very few extremely wealthy and well connected but for all working, disabled and retired persons who are just trying to get by and live from check to check.

Why is Senator Warren so committed to this "fight"? This question connects with the question the young Warren Regional Organizer Daniela Michanie asked me when I signed up again to lead the "Winthrop for Warren" campaign — this time for president. "Why are you supporting Elizabeth Warren for President?" Michanie asked me. "Because Elizabeth Warren never forgets where she came from and WHAT she came from," I answered.

Sen. Warren tells the story of growing up the 4th child in a family "hanging onto the middle class by its fingernails." She recalls knowing the words "mortgage" and "foreclosure" at an early age of 11. Though an aviator and a man who mastered plane mechanics, Elizabeth's father was deemed too old to join the Air Force during WWII. Instead, he sold carpet and fencing. Then he became a janitor. He sustained a debilitating heart attack that made for a turning point in the family's existence. The family was about to lose their home. That's when Senator Warren turns to the story about "the dress."

Elizabeth describes her very anxious mother who put on "the dress" — the one the mother wore to funerals, weddings, and special occasions. Elizabeth's mother marched down to the local Sears Roebuck and took on a minimum paying job (about $1.30 back in the early '60s), a minimum-paying job that was able to keep the house and a family of three together. Elizabeth NEVER forgets her roots, her beginnings, and the fear and pain a family encounters when in the midst of medical expenses and glooming financial doom.

FOR THIS REASON, Elizabeth Warren is committed to helping all the other families in this country who are "hanging by their fingernails" to keep a roof over their heads, utilities paid, and possibly some chance at higher education and/or technical training for their children. Elizabeth Warren recognizes, too, that today's family's are faced with constantly rising rents and mortgages, high medical bills, out-of-control higher education costs, and unaffordable quality child care. Rising expenses while living on wages that have been stagnant for the last four decades.

She recognizes the impact of economic inequality where the upper 1 percent, highly paid CEO's salaries have risen to nearly 300 percent since 1980. For "the rest of us," the real average wage, accounting for inflation, has about the same purchasing power it did in 1980. (PEW Research Center). Elizabeth also knows that 5 out of every 10 persons are working a second or even third job to sustain a bare living. Many families rely, in this day and age, on local food banks to survive, while other families face rising homelessness.

Elizabeth Warren also knows that median family income only raised $514 this past year—a 0.4 percent increase. There was no $4,000-$9,000 wage increase promised the average worker when President Trump crafted the nearly $2 trillion tax cut for his Wall Street cronies back in December of 2017. Most of that tax cut money DID NOT TRICKLE DOWN to increase workers' wages when productivity increased by 70 percent. The money did NOT go back into business and factory development. Rather the CEO's of the Business Roundtable put most of the tax cut money into stock buybacks, which primarily benefit executives and other wealthy shareholders. Just what Sen. Warren predicted in December of 2017 when the proposed tax cuts were on the Senate floor.

In addition, in 2018, 91 profitable Fortune 500 corporations such as Amazon, FedEx, General Motors, Netflix, and Starbucks, paid no U.S. corporate income taxes and instead got billions of dollars back in tax rebates. (Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy Dec. 16, 2019).

The tax cuts have caused a nearly $2 trillion deficit (a 70 percent increase) in the federal budget. To cover this deficit, President Trump, not upholding his promises, has proposed $845 billion in cuts to Medicare and $241 billion in cuts to Medicaid. Social Security, once considered sacred and untouchable, is also on the Trump chopping block or with considerations to "privatize" it, thereby subjecting the funds to the rises and falls of the stock market.

To address some of the hardships the average family and workers are experiencing with stagnant wages

ART 912 – COTTAGE PARK YACHT CLUB HISTORY

Winthrop, being a peninsula that forms the Eastern side of the Boston Harbor has 1.63 square miles of land, almost completely surrounded by salt water, which has been home to five Yacht Clubs as follows: the Point Shirley Yacht Club, the Highland’s Yacht Club, the Winthrop Yacht Club, the Cottage Park Yacht Club and the Pleasant Park Yacht Club, the last three of which are still active. Today’s article is about the Cottage Park Yacht Club. In the early 1880s, the Bartlett Home on Maple Avenue (now called Bartlett Road) became part of the Cottage Park Hotel complex and a pier extending out into the bay was constructed at the end of Bowman Avenue (now called Orlando Avenue) to service this resort area. See picture one which is of an 1895 painting that depicts a steamboat docking at this landing. According to an 1886 map it was labeled the Bartlett Pier and from 1893 thru 1902 the Boston Steamship Line operated a ferry service out of Boston which used this pier for one of its two Winthrop stops before heading out through Shirley Gut to other North Shore resort/amusement locations such as Revere Beach. When the steamship service was discontinued in 1902, the pier was purchased by a newly formed Cottage Park Yacht Club organization that used the old ticket office/passenger waiting room as their first clubhouse, see picture two. Following a number of meetings, a new clubhouse was built in 1907 which included two bowling alleys, a ladies parlor and dressing room, Commodores locker, billiard room and library on the first floor. The second floor had a large assembly room with a stage for club functions and entertainment. The original ferry terminal office was integrated into the clubhouse complex by moving it further out onto the pier as can also be seen in the third picture. This building subsequently burned down on July 8, 1926. While a new clubhouse was being built, the club rented the former home of Dr. Sproule on Sunnyside Avenue, at what is now the corner of Plummer and Francis streets, to use as their clubhouse. A new Cottage Park Clubhouse was then completed and officially opened in March 1927, see picture four. Today the Cottage Park Yacht Club is a center of yachting in the Boston Harbor with over 45 percent of their membership owning boats. The club actively encourages family participation in not only many youth and adult sailing/boating programs, including lessons and organized races for all classes of boats, but also numerous other activities such as Bowling Leagues, a Dart League, Billiards and social/entertainment programs. As with all organizations, the CPYC welcomes new members who would like to share in all facets of boating activities, including the sociability of participating in club parties and other events. For those interested in learning more about CPYC membership, as in the past years, the Club will be holding a number of events and open houses in the spring where one can learn more about CPYC membership. Such events will be noted in The Winthrop Transcript.

Winthrop celebrated the start of the New Millennium with a grand illumination that featured fireworks at Ingleside Park.

Longtime residents were saddened to hear the news this week of the sudden passing of Richard “Dick” Kennedy, who served for many years as the town’s Veteran’s Agent after a career with the Veteran’s Administration. Kennedy was a veteran of WWII who took part in the invasion of Normandy at Omaha Beach. He was 80 years old.

encing with stagnant wages and rising costs of housing, education, medical care, and child care; Elizabeth Warren outlines “plans” to deal with these challenging issues. Her plans also attempt to enforce antitrust laws, execute fair taxation policies, reform campaign financing, raise the minimum wage, provide free public college and vocational education, lower student loan interest rates, uphold women’s rights, garner green and clean economic development, safeguard the environment, and insure workers’ rights to fair pay and safe working conditions.

And having gotten to know Senator Warren over these past few years, I know that if her “plans” don’t get it right the first time, she’ll GO BACK to the drawing board, enlist her team of experts, and get it right in a reasonable period of time. That’s persistence. That’s the “steadiness” coming “from character and commitment” that Warren exemplifies.

Conor Clarke.

STUDENT HIGHLIGHT: Clarke ready to compete in Irish step dancing competition

By Kate Anslinger

It's no surprise that 17-year-old Conor Clarke is an Irish step dancer competing at world level. Since he was 6 years old, he's been dedicated to the dance style, traveling to compete in competitions throughout the year. "I absolutely love it," said Clarke, who will be traveling to Dublin, Ireland, in April to compete at the World Irish Step Dance Championships. "This will be my third time going to this competition and I am very hopeful this year. In addition to his love of dance, Clarke, a senior at Winthrop High School, is heavily involved in Wake Up Winthrop, a newscast that is produced and directed by students every Friday morning.

How did you get in involved in Wake Up Winthrop?

I have been involved in the newscast in multiple ways from directing a story to producing the broadcast week to week. During my freshman year, Mr. Donnelly, the digital media teacher, told my class that he wanted to start a newscast and from that point on I knew I wanted to get involved. I have been involved for four years now and this is what I'd love to pursue someday.

What are your future goals?

My future plans are to audition for the show Rivendence and if I am lucky enough to get in, I would love to travel the world with the company. When I return, I am planning on going to college for digital media production and communications, and I would like to work in the television/movie field.

Who is your role model?

My role model would have to be my Irish dance teacher, Mr. Thomas Bracken. He has been there with me at my worst and best moments and has always believed in me when I didn't believe in myself. He has not only been my dance teacher, he has also been a good life coach.

Malden Catholic High School invests in newly expanded arts program

Over the years, Malden Catholic has been known for academic rigor and scholarly pursuits, but with the addition of the Girls Division in 2018, the school now boasts of a newly expanded, multi-faceted arts program.

"Nurturing and balancing both right and left brain is critical to promoting the whole person," stated Lisa Cenca, Principal of the Girls Division. "Creative arts help kids think more critically and clearly," she added. According to a study published by the American Psychological Association, high school students who take music courses score significantly better on exams in certain subject including math and science, than their nonmusical peers. Over 112,000 student records were studied and those who participated in music, who had higher achievement in music, and who were highly engaged in music had higher exam scores across all subjects.

As the foundation of the expanded program, nine new courses including choir, advanced choir, introduction to dance, jazz, contemporary dance, drama, musical theater, speech and debate I and II have all been added to the curriculum. Fine arts courses also balance out the academic structure with drawing, digital art and photography.

In a time when many institutions have cut funding for the arts, Malden Catholic has made a significant investment and targeted skilled teachers to support the expansion. Experienced educators were added to the team. Ellen and Erin Keith who have successfully run Spotlight Productions and are leading the MC drama classes, Stacie Ferriera, an accomplished dancer and instructor for twenty years, is running the dance program, Deirdre Foley and Devan Pecoraro, both experienced high school debaters, are working with students for speech and debate and Lora Tamagini, worked with Catholic and public high school choirs for 25 years and is pursuing her EdD in Educational Leadership and Curriculum. In addition, Brian O'Donnell, an accomplished artist himself, teaches drawing, digital art and photography.

Malden Catholic extracurriculars include a school band (above) and a school choir (below) among others

In celebration of program, Malden Catholic hosted a Winter Arts night on Wednesday, December 11, providing an opportunity for the community to enjoy the students' hard work and tremendous talent. Over 250 people flowed throughout the building, moving between the cafeteria, auditorium and the Hub and enjoyed 13 different rotating performances. The MC Choir sang a holiday repertoire in the cafeteria, the MC rock band as well as the dance company performed in the Hub while drama and contemporary dance shined on the auditorium stage. The school also displayed the students' fine art drawings, paintings and sculptures throughout the halls.

Since 1932, Malden Catholic High School has shaped emerging leaders in our community, claiming a Nobel Laureate, a Senator, two ambassadors and countless community and business heads among its alumni. Annually, graduates attend some of the nation's most renown universities including Harvard, Georgetown, Brown, Cornell, Tufts, Georgia Tech, Boston College and Amherst College. Foundational to student success is Malden Catholic's codivisional model which offers the best of both worlds, single-gender academics during the day and integrated social and extracurricular opportunities after school. Malden Catholic is known in the community for its rigorous academics, SFX Scholars Program and award-winning STEM program (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) with electives such as Robotics and Engineering Design. Malden Catholic curriculum is designed to improve individual growth mindset, leadership principles, success outcomes along with integrating the Xaverian values of trust, humility, compassion, simplicity and zeal. <https://www.maldencatholic.org/>.

VIKING HOCKEY TEAM SPLITS TWO CONTESTS

The Winthrop High boys hockey team split its two contests this past week.

Last Wednesday the Vikings celebrated New Year's Eve in fine fashion with a 5-0 blanking of Saugus at Larsen Rink.

J.D. Parker scored what would prove to be the game-winning goal (unassisted) in the opening period and Ari Hain, assisted by captain Mike Brooks and Joey Hayes, made it 2-0 in favor of the Vikings with a lamp-lighter in the middle period.

Winthrop then put the game away with a trio of goals in the final 15 minutes: Robbie Tarantino from captain Joe Deeb; Jack Sicurella from Conlan Petersen; and Charlie Lane from Deeb and assistant captain Joey Holgersen.

Goalie Anthony Indrisano earned the shutout, turning aside 22 shots from the Sachems, who have moved from the North Division of the Northeastern Conference to the NEC's South Division this season.

Three days later the Vikings entertained Gloucester (which has moved from the South Division to the North Division).

After Gloucester grabbed a 1-0 lead in the opening period, Brooks brought the contest back to level with a lamp-lighter in the second period, assisted by Sicurella.

However, the visiting Fishermen scored a pair of unanswered goals in the third period to hook the victory. WHS goalie Ryan Hovermale stopped 23 Gloucester shots.

WHS head coach Dale Dunbar and his crew, who now stand at 4-2-2 overall, were scheduled to host non-league rival Cambridge last night (Wednesday) and then will travel to the McVann-O'Keefe Rink in Peabody to face Bishop Fenwick on Saturday.

They will return home next Wednesday evening to face NEC North archrival Marblehead, which is among the top-ranked teams in the state. The opening face-off is set for 6:10 p.m.

WHS GIRLS HOCKEY DROPS TWO CONTESTS

The Winthrop High girls hockey team will seek to get back on the winning track after coming up short in a pair of contests this past week, their first losses of the season.

The Lady Vikings dropped a 6-1 decision to St. Mary's of Lynn, the top-ranked team in the state in Division 1, last Wednesday, and then fell by a score of 7-1 at Peabody on Saturday.

Winthrop grabbed an early 1-0 lead to start the game against St. Mary's on a goal by Mia Martucci, assisted by Julia Holmes, but the Lady Spartans responded with four unanswered goals before the first period ended.

St. Mary's added a power play goal in the middle period and tacked on another lamp-lighter in the final period for the 6-1 finale.

"They were fast, they had great skills, and they were well-coached," said WHS head coach Anthony Martucci.

In a 7-1 loss at Peabody three days later, the combo of Holmes, assisted by Martucci, scored on the power play for Winthrop in the opening period, but thereafter the contest belonged to the Lady Tanners, who took over sole possession of first place in the Northeast Hockey League.

"Peabody was fast, and they had some good offensive players, but we played about as bad as you could possibly play in the defensive zone, and it cost us," said Martucci. "They wanted it more than us and it showed."

Martucci and his crew, who now stand at 4-2 on the season (4-1 in the NHL behind undefeated Peabody), were scheduled to meet non-league foe Longmeadow this past Tuesday and will host Wakefield (another non-league opponent) Saturday at Larsen at 1:30 p.m. They then will trek to Medford next Wednesday evening.

MAHONEY, POTE, NARGI WIN FOR WHS GIRLS TRACK

Although the Winthrop High girls track team came out on the short end of a tri-meet to both Marblehead (60-26) and Danvers (46-40) last Saturday at Swampscott, a number of Lady Vikings turned in fine performances.

Isabella Mahoney topped the entire field in the high jump with her leap pf 4'-8" to take first place against both Danvers and Marblehead.

MaryKate Pote did likewise in the shot-put with her

*We little knew that morning that God was going to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
in death we do the same.*

*It broke our hearts to lose you, you did not go alone;

OBITUARIES

Richard Vettel

Founder and CEO of UnitechEDI, musician, equestrian and born entrepreneur Richard R. Vettel of Winthrop, known as Rich, died Dec. 21, 2019 at Massachusetts General Hospital after a three-year battle with complications from a spinal cord injury.

He was born on April 14, 1951, in the Bronx, N.Y., the only child of Raymond R. Vettel and Marie (Bocchieri) Vettel. Rich attended Fordham Prep and Fordham University, graduating with a B.S. in business administration in 1973. Rich was the founder and CEO of UnitechEDI, Inc., a software publishing enterprise. He modeled integrity, honesty and a passion for his customers in all his business dealings.

Rich met his wife and soulmate Niki (Scher) at the Bitterroot Ranch in Dubois, Wy., in August, 1989, where Rich, an intuitively talented horseman and Niki, a beginning equestrian, discovered their shared passion for riding horses, and love of “Spin and Marty.”

Rich moved to Winthrop in 1991 and Niki and Rich married on the Elk Refuge in Jackson Hole, Wy., in February of 1995. Rich would say that his wedding day was the happiest day of his life and that Niki made every day an adventure.

Rich embraced his adopted city of Boston and, as he had in his years as a New Yorker, walked miles and miles, exploring the history and looking for the next incredible eating adventure. In addition to riding, walking and eating great food, Rich loved the guitar. He played from the time he was 12, forming groups and eventually playing lead guitar with and managing Jason Exit, a popular band in the Bronx and environs during the 1970s. His love of music propelled him to becoming a booking agent and eventually founding the newspaper Musicians Classified, before he turned his attention to computing.

A born entrepreneur, Rich holds the patent on a guitar strap lock he invented at age 19. His entrepreneurial spirit was a constant and his inventions and improvements included computer software, hardware safeguards and guitar pedals.

Rich continued to play guitar until his final days; his great joy was collaborating with his dear friend, Jerry Twomey on Beatles tunes. Known privately as “the stunada brothers,” they brought musical happiness to patients at the various care facilities and hospital floors that Rich occupied during his rehabilitation. Sustained by formidable food cooked by Sandra Curzi, Jerry’s wife, they ate and sang their way through Boston.

Rich’s culinary adventures were not limited to the U.S.; along with great friends Patricia and John Nelson, the foursome, dubbed “The Provençal Pals” enjoyed a memorable trip through Provence, eating and laughing their way through that remarkable countryside.

Rich delighted in all things Irish, and his favorite holiday was St. Patrick’s Day. For many years, Rich rode a beautiful horse down Fifth Avenue in the New York City St. Patrick’s Day Parade, as part of the Ladies and Gentlemen’s Equestrian Unit. Normally shy and reserved Rich would wave wildly to an adoring crowd, especially when he rode the magnificent palomino, Amadeus.

He enthusiastically supported his wife’s PBS productions, of which she was an executive producer, and was Perry Como’s favorite companion in Dublin during the taping of “Perry Como’s Irish Christmas.” Additionally, he played an important role in the tapings of Dr. Wayne Dyer’s PBS specials, as the official show “timer.” Her proud champion, Rich made Niki’s second career as a mental health clinician possible with his unwavering love and encouragement.

He was an ardent supporter of Winthrop restaurants, the Ferry, the Winthrop Playmakers, and was thrilled to play in the pit band for their presentation of “Rocky Horror Picture Show.” He was committed heart and soul to Niki; living on the water in Winthrop was a dream come true for both of them.

Rich is survived by Niki, his devoted wife; his beloved aunt Rose Bocchieri Zarba, the extended Zarba family of cousins, nephews and nieces; his god-daughters Christine (Thomas) Roussel, Ed, Eddie, Luke and Abby Roussel; and Katie Thomas. He leaves behind friends who loved his dry wit and caring nature and a legacy as a gentle soul, grateful to everyone who he met on his life journey.

“We are not human beings having spiritual experiences; we are Spiritual beings, having human experiences.” (Pierre Teilhard de Chardin)

A Life Celebration will be held later in January.

Donations in Rich Vettel’s name may be made to the Greater Boston Chapter of United Spinal Cord Association, www.sciboston.org.

To sign the online guestbook go to www.caggiano-funeralhome.com.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Caggiano-O’Maley-Frazier Funeral Home, Winthrop.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

COUNCIL APPROVES TIF AGREEMENT

CHELSEA - It was an early Christmas present for the residents of the Innes Apartments and Corcoran Development at the City Council's Dec. 23 meeting.

The Council voted 9-0 to approve a Tax Incremental Financing (TIF) agreement allowing Corcoran Development and the Chelsea Housing Authority (CHA) to redevelop the Innes Apartments into a mixed-income community with new public housing units and new market-rate units – along with parking and some retail portions.

Councillors Giovanni Recupero and Enio Lopez were not present for the meeting, and so did not vote on the matter.

The 15-year TIF will give the developer a tax savings of about $6.5 million over 15 years, while still bringing more than $4.6 million into the City coffers over that time.

While there was some discussion at a Council subcommittee meeting earlier in December about the 100-page document being dropped on the councillors desks without time to scour the agreement, the Dec. 23 public hearing on the TIF was more of a pro forma event.

One representative from the Corcoran Company spoke in favor of the TIF, alongside Chelsea Housing Authority Board member Juan Vega and City Manager Thomas Ambrosino.

"It's been a very long process, and I appreciate your diligence," Vega told the Council. "In order to carry this out for the residents of Central Avenue, there are a lot of preparations that have to happen for the families."

Ambrosino said the City has worked hard to make the project a reality, providing new, quality homes for the residents currently living in the 96 Innes Development apartments.

"This is the last milestone to make this project a reality," Ambrosino said.

The terms of the 15-year TIF include an 80 percent reduction in new value the first five years, 60 percent the second five years, and 50 percent for the final five years.

In addition to the 96 CHA affordable housing units on the site, there will be 40 income-restricted units and 196 market-rate units in the 300,000 square-foot mixed-use, mixed-income development.

Groundbreaking for the Innes Development should take place in the fall of 2020, with completion in January or February of 2022, Jen Corcoran of the Corcoran Company said at a Zoning Board meeting in November.

•In other business during the last Council meeting of the year, the Council also approved several zoning amendments. One allows for the storage of taxi cabs in industrial districts, the second cleans up some language in the Community Improvement Trust Fund, and the third allows for small, 5-G wireless transmitters on existing utility poles by right.

Councillor-At-Large Leo Robinson gave the City Manager some homework over the holiday break, requesting updates on the Forbes, Midas Muffler, Sixth Street, and Everett Avenue properties.

•It was not only the last Council meeting of the year, but the last meeting for three councillors, Luis Tejada, Robert Bishop, and Joe Perlatonda.

Each was given a plaque by a fellow council member and thanked for their time and service to the city.

COUNCIL, MAYOR DIFFER ON POPE JOHN

EVERETT - At the last Council meeting of 2019, Mayor Carlo DeMaria asked Council to vote on the purchase of the former Pope John Paul XXII High School property.

When councillors pushed back, the mayor dug in his heels.

The result has been a furthering rift between the two bodies, in particular the mayor and three councillors.

Council was asked on Dec. 23 to vote on two measures regarding the property purchase: approve the City's request to borrow $10.5 million for the property, and approve its request to acquire it through a friendly eminent domain taking from the Archdiocese of Boston.

Mayor DeMaria had appeared before council in October to lay out his plan to transform the 2.5-acre site at 888 Broadway into an affordable housing development for seniors and veterans, with 75 percent of units dedicated to Everett residents. Councilors expressed strong support for the mayor's vision at the time.

However, Councilor Fred Capone asked that the vote be postponed until the first meeting of the new year, saying that he wanted more time to explore potentially using the site as a new school.

"We have a serious need for schools," he said. "Our school system is busting at the seams."

Councilor Michael Marchese agreed, citing overcrowding at the Webster School.

"We should have more time on this," he stated.

Councilor Capone also expressed that the new council should be involved in a purchase of such magnitude, especially as the site is located in the ward of incoming Councilor-elect Jimmy Tri Le.

"This is going to commit this community for a very long time," he said. "Those new [council] members who have been elected by the people should have an opportunity to weigh in on it."

Councilor Michael McLaughlin added that he wanted written proof that the acquisition was actually a friendly eminent domain taking as the mayor claimed. Friendly eminent domain applies to situations where the property owners are ready to sell at a negotiated price and can expedite the negotiation of the sale terms.

"I will not be bullied [into a vote]," said the councilor. "I'm not afraid to take a hard line."

Mayor DeMaria attempted to address the councilors' concerns, saying that some schools actually have surplus space for expansion and adding more classrooms.

"We are spending plenty of money educating children," he said. "It's time we spend tax dollars on the people who built this community - our veterans and our seniors."

Regarding the friendly acquisition, Mayor DeMaria said that there was no written agreement and that negotiations had taken place in person.

between himself and the head of real estate for the archdiocese.

The mayor engaged in a brief, heated argument with Councilor McLaughlin at that point.

"What do we lose by holding this over for another two weeks?" the councilor asked.

"Progress," the mayor responded. "Two weeks, four weeks, six weeks; it's the same thing you did to my administration over the Food Policy Council."

Mayor DeMaria added that if the Council moved to postpone the vote, he would not bring the matter before them again.

"If you want to push this down the road to the next council, all you're doing is wasting people's time," he said. "I want the vote tonight."

Ultimately, the mayor compelled Council to vote on the measures, both of which passed by 8 to 3, with Councilors Capone, Marchese and McLaughlin voting in opposition.

Following the meeting, Mayor DeMaria wrote a Facebook post where he celebrated his victory, adding that Councilors Capone, Marchese and McLaughlin had "turned their backs on veterans" by voting against the acquisition.

The new council will convene in 2020 when incoming councilors stand to inherit what observers believe will be a contentious and controversial community landmark.

City Council held its final meeting of the year, where it said goodbye to three councilors and re-enrolled the short-term rental zoning ordinance, among other decisions.

•Citations
This was the last meeting with Council President Richard J. Dell Isola, Jr., and Councilors John Leo McKinnon and Stephen Simonelli. The councilmen were honored by Sen. Sal DiDomenico, Mayor Carlo DeMaria and fellow council members for their individual contributions to the city.

McKinnon announced his retirement earlier this year and Dell Isola, Jr. and Simonelli were narrowly defeated by political newcomers in the November election. Taking their place in 2020 will be the newly elected Gerly Adrien, Stephanie Martins and Jimmy Tri Le.

•Short-term rental zoning ordinance

Council voted to re-enroll the changes to the short-term rental zoning ordinance. It remains to be seen if it will be ordained in the new year with the new council, or if it will need to be scrapped entirely and built from scratch per Council rules. In the latter case, short-term rental legislation will essentially be unenforceable in the city for a minimum of two months.

In a shocking turn of events at the previous Council meeting on Dec. 9, Councilor John Hanlon's single "no" vote on amending the Zoning Ordinance quashed the year-long progress made on short-term rental legislation in Everett. The councilor never returned a request for comment from The Independent regarding his decision.

•Encore tax revenue
Council failed to override the mayor's veto of a measure proposed by Councilor Michael Marchese that would direct the City to put 75 percent of all Encore Boston Harbor revenue into tax reduction for Everett residents.

•Small-cell antennas
ExteNet made another appearance before Council where it received permission to install small-cell technology along publicly owned streets for the benefit of T-Mobile customers. In 2020, Verizon will be making a petition of its own to install small cell antennas to benefit its own customers. The City continues to refine its small-cell antenna ordinance, a revised version of which was ordained at Monday's meeting.

•Appointments
Council approved the appointment of several individuals to the Library Board of Trustees, including Janet Colameta, Victoria Scaramuzzo, Marlene Zizza, Mark Correia and James LaVecchio. It also appointed Anthony Medeiros and Mark Puleo as members of the DPW Commission Board, and Joan LaVecchio to the Board of Health.

•Petition renewals
Council approved the renewals for lodging house licenses for The Glendale Lodging House, Joseph's Lodge, The Marlboro and The Newport Lodging House. New lodging licenses were granted to Boston Real Estate Collaborative, LLC for its properties at 51 Cottage St., 11-13 Ellsworth St. and 450 Ferry St.

Council also approved the renewals of class two motor vehicle dealer licenses for Affordable Auto Mechanic, Inc.; Best Cars Auto Sales; Circle Auto Body, Inc.; Everett Used Cars, Inc.; and Second Street Iron & Metals.

CHAMBER RECOGNIZES THREE BUSINESSES

EAST BOSTON - The East Boston Chamber of Commerce held their 2019 "Deck the Windows" holiday window decorating contest the weekend of Dec. 13, 14, and 15. Businesses participated by decorating their storefront windows with decorations of the season, by calling the Chamber and having a Chamber Board member take the photos, or by having their decorations photographed by a Chamber Board member, or directly submitting pictures of their decorations.

From the many contest entries, three winners were chosen (first, second, and third place) to be the best decorated windows by an East Boston business in 2019. Certificates were awarded to the three winners along with a congratulatory letter from the East Boston Chamber of Commerce thanking each winner for their decorating and for demonstrating the spirit of the holidays in our community.

Congratulations to: First Prize winner – La Chiva Restaurant on Bennington Street. Second Prize winner – Italian Express Pizzeria decorations at "Ianuzzi's square" on Bennington Street. Third Prize winner – Jeveli's Italian Restaurant on Chelsea Street.
