WINTHROP HEALTH NEEDS ASSESSMENT
DEADLINE IS APRIL 7

For the first time, Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop are combining forces to conduct a comprehensive regional Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) and design a Community Health Implementation Plan (CHIP). Major hospitals, along with health centers, human services providers and non-profits that serve area residents, are working with municipal leaders, health departments and the boards of health of each community to develop the plan. Residents of the three communities are being urged to go online and fill out a survey that asks about local health issues and other aspects of community life.

The effort is being co-coordinated by the North Suffolk Public Health Collaborative and the Mass General Hospital Center for Community Health Improvement (CCHI) with the ultimate goal of identifying, prioritizing and addressing the most urgent health needs faced by each community and the region. Such assessments are often used to apply for targeted funding to help address community needs.

Every three years, most hospitals conduct a community health needs assessment to meet requirements set by the Affordable Care Act. The Massachusetts Attorney General also requires such a report and is encouraging regional collaboration among stakeholders, including among healthcare systems who share the same service areas. "This is one of the first regional assessments of its type in Massachusetts," said Jeff Stone, Director of the North Suffolk Public Health Collaborative.

According to Town Manager Faison, "This is an important process for Winthrop. I frequently stress the need for data and analysis at the munic-

High School students launch first robotics club

By Kate Anslinger

In early October of the 2018-2019 school year, high schoolers Liz Collins and Trinity Rist approached every STEM and science teacher in the school, asking if they would be willing to lead the robotics club that they dreamed of starting. While several teachers didn't have the time to add more to their already-packed schedules, Middle School STEM Director, Rosemary McCarthy, stepped in and offered her expertise, unable to turn down the motivated group of future engineers.

"Rosemary was the best choice, by far," said Max Correia, one of the original club members.

The students had witnessed robotics clubs well underway in surrounding school districts, and they felt that they deserved a chance to learn the skillsets needed to build a robot and contend with schools in the upcoming FIRST Robotics Competition.

Once they had McCarthy on their side, the students had an even bigger job ahead of them; they had to recruit three engineer mentors and raise more than $6,000 to get the program up and running. In came Paulo Correia, Rick Bryan, and Keith Heberlein, real-world engineers and community members who agreed to dedicate every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons to guiding the students in building a robot.

"We like to say that we are rookies as well, and we steer but don't necessarily drive the projects," said Rick Bryan, a career software engineer.

After applying to several grants, the newly established Robotics Club received $4,000 from the FIRST Robotics Rookie Grant. The club received $500 from the 11 Foundation and $1,000 from the Viking Pride Foundation. In addition, they took it upon themselves to start a GoFundMe page and attend town events requesting donations for the remaining $500.

"These kids did not have a lot of money to work with and they hustled for it," said McCarthy. "I tip my hat to them."

Winthrop, the world, all on the same recycling ride

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

You think you're doing the right thing by recycling your plastic milk jug, your cardboard and cans.

Environmentally, you are still doing the right thing, but for cities and towns, it costs more to dispose of recyclable trash as opposed to regular trash. In Winthrop it all goes to the same place – the incinerator – the hauler Capital Waste decides where the trash and recycling go.

Mike Merolo, one of the owners at Capital Waste, said he knows the recycling markets aren't great.

When recycling really took off in the late '80s and early '90s, cities and towns made money off recyclables.

Much of the recyclables were shipped to China and other countries for processing, but now the markets are flooded and China has closed their markets entirely.

Town Manager Austin Faison said the town's trash contract ends in the next fiscal year and he wants to take

Council hears from Town officials on FY'20 budget

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

Next year's budget season is right on track, and includes town department heads making a brief presentation to the Town Council.

Tuesday night department heads from Veteran's Services, Human Resources, Treasurer, Assessors, the Council on Aging, and the ferry service/MIS/EB Newton came before the council.

Steve Roche, deputy assessor, said the town had $20 million in new growth, a record for the town.

"Property values are up and we hope to see continued growth," he said.

Tanji Cufini, who heads the ferry service, said a $161,000 subsidy will be given to the town because of the stop in Quincy. Another $150,000 is coming from MassDEP.

"Water traffic should increase because traffic will be bad," she said, referring to the Tobin Bridge construction over the next two years.

In other business:

- Kathleen Napoli, who spearheaded the rally about the sky-high water rates turned in 300 signatures to the Town Council to call for an audit of the water and sewer system.

- The Council appropriated $487,850 to replace lead water lines to residences throughout the town. Funds will be borrowed from the MWRA Lead Replacement Program. There are 840 full lead line services and this particular appropriation will remove 100 of them.

- Somerset Avenue resident Tom Reilly told the council he had been given a couple

Before they knew it, the Robotics Club had a core group of eight students, all who were passionate about learning the necessary expertise needed to build a bot. All eight students who see themselves as future engineers, began learning all the necessary components to building a robot; programming, mechanics, machining, and electronics. As an added bonus, they learned a great deal about promotion, fundraising and outreach, all skills that will come in handy when they head to college. By December, the Robotics Club, who also deemed themselves as “Norse Code,” was prepared to enter their 79-pound robot, in its first competition. The competition, held at Reading Memorial High School, entailed three full days of qualification rounds and interviews with panels of judges. In a field house full of experienced robotics clubs, “Norse Code” showed off what they had accomplished in the short time since they started their own club. Their hard work paid off and they took home the “Rookie Inspiration Award” and “Highest-Seeded Rookie Award.” Now, the club’s main goal is to keep getting better, and they are refining the skills that they have already learned, improving the movement and cargo structure of their robot. Going forward they will not only need the $2,000 annual FIRST Robotics Club registration fee but additional funds to purchase tools and parts and to cover travel expenses-and they are already brainstorming creative ways to fundraise for next year. “It’s impossible to put together and work a robot on your own,” said Correia. “We all have different individual skills and we come together in the end for this major project.” If you are interested in donating to the WHS Robotics Club, please contact Rosemary McCarthy at: rmccarthy@winthrop.k12.ma.us.

WINTHROP’ STEPHEN HINES NAMED AS AGENT CHOICE MVP

Each year, Robert Paul Properties agents from across Cape Cod, Greater Boston, Metro-West, and the North Shore vote for an agent that has shown themselves to be crucially valuable to their clients and to the company. This year, Stephen Hines, Senior Residential Sales Associate in Back Bay, Winthrop and Salem was selected by his peers as that agent during the annual awards meeting at the Cotuit Center for the Arts.

a comprehensive look at the solid waste contract, including refuse, recycling, composting. “We need to holistically look at all these things,” he said. “This is an arduous process. We currently have an ‘all in’ waste removal contract and in that we don’t have any say about our recycling. Recycling is treated the same as trash is unfortunately.” Faison said he recently saw an article in the New York Times on how expensive recycling is. In the world market China has essentially cut off the United States for recycling because they claim the material is contaminated. “There are very few places in the world for recyclable materials to be sold,” Faison said. “Communities used to make money in the past they are now paying.” Faison plans on forming a committee to work on the issue, perhaps even consider uniform barrels. According to Steve Calla, director of public works, in calendar year 2018, Capital Waste collected 5,617 tons of trash from Winthrop. They also collected 1,475 tons of single stream recycling. Single stream recycling refers to a system in which all kinds of recyclables such as plastics, paper, metals, glass etc. are put into a single bin by consumers. Calla added that the Department of Public Works collected an additional 90 tons of trash from the Town’s municipal barrels. The annual cost to the town for the contract with Capital Waste was $1,189,738 in fiscal year 2018, $1,216,507 in fiscal year 2019, and will be $1,243,879 in fiscal year 2020. This contract which was executed in 2013 (FY14) is an all-inclusive contract that expires on June 30, 2020, Calla said. Faison said the next contract a question that will have to be answered is “is it worth it to recycle these items.” He would even like to see the town have a place for textile recycling. If the town is really in to looking at recycling the cost of the contract will go up. Some communities pick up recycled materials but they are disposed at the incinerator. “Are we going to include in the contract that we want these certain items recycled,” Faison said. “Are will willing to recycle because it’s the right thing to do or are we will to let our materials go to an incinerator or landfill?”

Photographer Lou Jones formed a figure of the African continent with his hand, drawing a line across northern Africa to illustrate the Sahara Desert, where the Sahel stretches from coast to coast. There, he noticed a distinct architectural style. Engineers utilize the abundant sand as building material. Jones depicts this ingenuity and images of modern Africa in his photographic series: PanAfrica Project. The PanAfrica Project, on display April 6-May 4 at Beacon Photo & Frame, emphasizes the progressiveness of contemporary African countries – the industries, education system, sciences, religion, art, and natural resources of the diverse people. “We spend a substantial amount of time in each country,” explained the award-winning photographer whose career spans over 40 years, and includes pieces published around the world in magazines like National Geographic, and Time. Through his portraits, such as a man piloting a Boeing 737 airplane, and an Ethiopian biotechnician researching means of naturally increasing a crop’s yield, Jones hopes to transform people’s visions of Africa, and challenge clichés. “I realized that I was a photographer and have a universal language. Lime bikes to return with a little something extra

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

Officials from Lime Bike and two Winthrop committees (Traffic Safety Advisory Committee – TSAC) and the Transportation Committee met Monday night about starting a new bicycling season with Lime Bike, this time with a little electronic kick. “We talked, for three hours on everything, the mechanics, the safety, the regulations, the legislation of these bikes and how we might be able to safely effectively,” said Julia Waller, chair of the Transportation Committee. “We got to ride the bike. It was my first time riding an electric assist bike and I am totally sold. It’s like the wind pushing you from behind. Chief Delehanty even got on one.” The contract with Lime Bike has to be modified and there will be a few recommendations. The Town Council gets to vote on whether or not the town will have the bicycles. The regular bicycles should roll out next month, and will be in Winthrop until June when they will be replaced with E-Lime Bikes. One resident concerned about the bicycles is John Morgan who lives on Golden Drive and likes to take walks. Morgan is blind and has tripped over the bikes left on the sidewalk. He said he would prefer designated areas to place the bikes.

OUR Opinions

BRING ON THE SPRING

Yes, we know that the calendar told us that spring officially began with the vernal equinox on March 20. And yes, the crocuses have been in full bloom, bringing a welcome burst of color to the otherwise dreary New England landscape at this time of year.

But those of us who call Eastern Massachusetts home know all-too-well that the actual spring season does not get underway until well into April and May, thanks primarily to the sea-breezes that wash over us with air that has been cooled by ocean temperatures that are only in the high 40s.

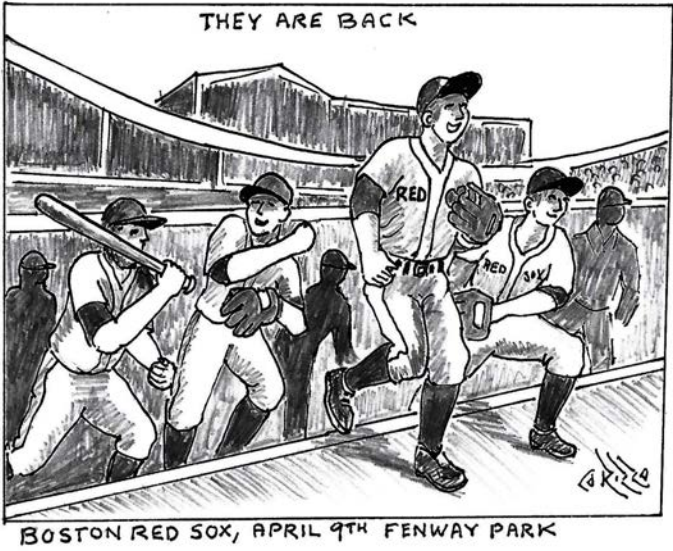

Still, with the winter of 2019 in the rear-view mirror, we can't complain too much about the weather.

The past winter season was easy on our backs because of the lack of snow that needed to be shoveled. Power outages were almost non-existent compared to the past few years. And coastal flooding, the bane of residents in our low-lying areas, thankfully did not occur, despite the potential that existed with the extraordinarily high tides in January, February, and March because of those super moons.

Still, we know that spring can bring its share of nasty and troublesome weather events. The bombogenesis (the term refers to a weather system that essentially explodes when the barometric pressure drops 24 millibars within 24 hours) that occurred with the coastal storm that came up the Atlantic Seaboard this week thankfully stayed out to sea.

But this near-miss served as a reminder that we may not be so lucky the next time around.

Still, with mild temperatures in the forecast for the first half of April, we can't complain -- and, like hope, our thoughts of warmer weather spring eternal.

LETTER to the Editor

REGARDING CLIMATE CHANGE

Dear Editor,

Bravo to the Winthrop Transcript Staff for their editorial: "Another Sign of Climate Change" 3/22/19. Global climate change is indeed accelerating at a faster rate than predicted. Dr. Anthony Leiserowitz of the Yale Climate Project sums up climate change in 10 words: "It's real; it's us; it's bad; scientists agree; there's hope."

The Transcript mentions the recent unprecedented flooding in the heart of our nation's bread basket. Food production is at risk. Not only that, our wine and coffee production is at risk. I am ready to act on that alone!

As the Transcript notes: The costs of climate change devastation, if we do not change our ways immediately, far outweigh the costs of implementing green energy measures. Yes. It is about our health—our economy—our children's future.

We must transition justly to renewable energy-wind, solar, geothermal, etc. There is much we can do individually—decrease plastic, decrease waste, promote energy efficiency, electric vehicles, heat pumps, advocate for carbon pricing, etc. One thing we all can do today is "green up" our electricity. National Grid, via Green Energy Consumers, provides all my electricity that is 100% generated by wind. It is easy to make the switch.

Finally, as Dr. Michael Mann says: "The single biggest way to have an impact on climate change is through collective pressure on policymakers to act in our interests rather than special interests." We must hold our legislators accountable.

Thank you so much for your ardent advocacy and please lets have more.

...ipal level so that we can improve services we provide to residents. It is exciting to partner with our neighbors because public health issues can impact our communities in different ways."

The collaborators have set an ambitious timeline. The CHNA and CHIP will be completed by Sept. 30, and will result in a guide for a three-year community health improvement plan that all providers can use. The process includes intensive data collection--hundreds of resident surveys, interviews and focus groups, as well as collecting data from other agencies such as the MA Department of Public Health and the US Census.

A website has been created, www.northsuffolkassessment.org, to provide information to anyone who may be interested. People who live or work in Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop are encouraged to complete a survey. It is available in English, Spanish, Portuguese and Arabic, reflecting the languages most frequently spoken in the communities.

ARTICLE 873 - COTTAGE PARK HOTEL - ESTABLISHED 1880

Of all the fifty-six hotels, inns and resort establishments that have operated in Winthrop from 1880 to date under no less than 75 different names, the largest and most luxurious was the Cottage Park Hotel complex located on Bartlett Road and Bartlett Parkway. We have received numerous requests for more information on this resort hotel and therefore have prepared a mini series of Then and Now articles that will be devoted to describing first its establishment in 1880, then its expansion to its final configuration in the late 1890s and finally the many amenities it had to offer its cliental in the early 1900s. This article begins with the 1850 construction of the first home in this area for Charles W. Bartlett at about 175 Bartlett Road where William Francis Bartlett, his son, was raised. For those who are unaware, General William Francis Bartlett was severely wounded during the Civil War, lost a leg in action but returned to duty and led his troops into battle with a wooden leg only to be captured and incarcerated as a prisoner of war. He was one of the most prominent veterans of the Civil War and a statue of him stands in the Massachusetts State House. When discharged, he married the young lady that had nursed him back to health, Agnes Pomeroy of Pittsfield and, after the war, they toured Europe as ambassadors of President Johnson. Picture #1 shows this home as it appeared in the mid 1850s. About 1880, additions were made by Orlando Belcher to expand it into the Cottage Park Hotel shown in picture #2. From 1883 until 1902, passengers from Boston were transported by ferry boat to a terminal located on a pier where the Cottage Park Yacht Club is now located as shown in picture #3. This pier was at the end of Orlando Avenue, just one block from Bartlett Road, where the Cottage Park Hotel complex was located. Looking up what would later become Cottage Park Road, picture #4 depicts the beginning of the hotel complex. The next 'Then and Now' article will describe the further expansion of the hotel to its final configuration of about 1895.

Faced with rising public sentiment against their decision not to renew the contract of Police Chief Thomas Shamshek, the selectmen this week have offered a written statement outlining the reasons for their decision. The selectmen said they have expressed their disappointment with his job performance at a number of executive sessions, citing his alleged failure to address the increasing number of breaks into home and garages; his failure to develop a drug and alcohol prevention program; and his failure to adopt stricter parking and traffic enforcement. The board also alleged that the police department has shown a disregard for the town budgetary process and that members of the department have shown disrespect for other town employees and for each other for which they are holding Shamshek accountable.
Despite the selectmen's statement, opponents of the selectmen's decision continue to circulate a petition throughout the town in support of the chief.

translation. I can show people what’s going on,” said Jones, East Boston resident. “Modern Western media deals with three issues: poverty, pestilence, and conflict.”

For more than five years, Jones and his team have traveled to 14 African countries, delving into the culture for a month at a time, with plans of returning to visit all 54 countries with the goal of expanding Western culture’s understanding of the economy, urban life, and development.

“We see entrepreneurs, families, accountants, and music,” Jones described, often with his eyes closed as he imagines the vivid scenes in his mind.

View Lou Jones’ PanAfrica Project, featuring a selection of images by acclaimed photographer, George Panagakos, who has accompanied Jones on several of his trips, at Beacon Photo & Frame, 185 Winthrop Street, Winthrop. Jones will be speaking during the exhibit’s opening reception on Saturday, April 6, 8-11 p.m.

“Lou Jones has probably taken over 100,000 photos of these 14 different countries in Africa. I asked him to show photos of people that our audience can empathize with and understand their personalities,” noted John Munson, Owner of Beacon Photo & Frame, who admires Jones’ series as an anthropological study. “We are all one. We have the same emotions, desires, and tendencies. That’s what I’m trying to point out.”

All types of services for all types of people.

Some people prefer traditional funeral services. Others prefer cremation. Some want an elaborate ceremony. Then there are others who don’t want any ceremony at all. When it comes to funerals, there are as many options as there are people. And we take pride in being able to say we offer them all.

‘TRULY ELEANOR’ AT THE WINTHROP PUBLIC LIBRARY

Eleanor Roosevelt, played by Lynne Moulton, is led by Franklin Roosevelt, played by Joseph Zamparelli.

Last Tuesday evening, the Hazlett Room at the Winthrop Public Library was packed with audience members who were eager to see another performance by the Delvena Theatre Company. In this three-person production of “Truly Eleanor,” actress Lynne Moulton narrates the many ups and downs of her life as Eleanor Roosevelt. Displaying polished theatrics, Moulton captured the audience as she shared her most private and meaningful moments, including her less than joyous childhood, her marriage to Franklin, who was her fifth cousin, and the devastation she faced when she found out her husband, the 32nd president of the United States, was having an affair with his social secretary. STUDENT HIGHLIGHT:

Freshman receives American Legion Certificate of School Award

By Kate Anslinger

While only at the start of her high school career, 14-year-old Summer Tallent is already receiving major accolades for both athletics and academics. The talented three-sport athlete was recently awarded with the American Legion Certificate of School Award, which is given to students that show exceptional qualities of courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship and service necessary to the preservation and protection of the fundamental institutions of our government and the advancement of society. In addition to her natural role as a class leader in academics and athletics, the freshman is heavily active in student council.

You play hockey, soccer, and softball. How do you manage to balance sports, school work and other activities?

Managing sports and school for me at first was very difficult. Most of the time you have practice right after school or have a game late at night which makes it hard to study or even finish homework. Being a student athlete, I have learned to manage my time by starting homework right after school, so when I get home later that evening after a sport, I only have to finish up a little if any. When I entered high school, I was nervous about time management having to juggle more homework, longer practices, and still have time to hang out with friends.

What is your favorite subject?

My favorite subject in school would have to be Comp Intro to Art with Ms. Moore. Art gives me the ability to express myself in my own ways and also helps me to succeed in other classes. Art is something I've always been interested in and this year has made me like it even more. My father has always enjoyed art as he was voted “most artistic” in his graduating class at Winthrop High.

Do you have any career/college goals?

My career goal is to be a

WHS SPORTS ROUNDUP

WHS BASEBALL TEAM PREPARING FOR OPENER

The Winthrop High baseball team is readying for its season opener, which is set for next Wednesday when the Vikings will make the trek to Malden to meet Mystic Valley.

Coach Frank DeMarco returns nine seniors from last year's squad, led by captains Dan Gillis, who was a Northeastern Conference All-Star in 2018, and Miles Albert.

"Dan has been accepted to Bentley University and is planning to continue both his education and his participation in baseball at the next level," said DeMarco. "Miles will be our catcher. He has improved every year and that is not an accident. Miles is always working on his game."

"We are fortunate to have strong leadership from both Dan and Miles," added DeMarco.

Returning infielders for the Vikings are Angelo Robertson, Sid Albert, Dan O'Neil, Dan Gillis, Colby Dassau, and Ryan Skoczylas.

"Most of these players can play multiple positions in the infield, allowing us to create a positive and competitive competition for time on the field," noted DeMarco.

In the outfield are seniors Andrew Love, Ryan Buccini, and Christian Natareno. Jonathan Applebee is returning to the team as well.

Rounding out the Viking varsity are returning outfielder Bobby Hubert, infielder Cam Martin, outfielder Mark Gouge, and outfielder David DiCicco.

DeMarco will have a large array of pitchers, led by Natareno and Gillis, who were 1-2 in innings pitched last year. Albert also returns for duty on the mound. Southpaws Applebee and DiCicco have shown promise. Robertson, Hubert, and Martin return with varsity pitching experience.

After Wednesday's opener, DeMarco and his crew will play their home opener on Saturday, April 13, when they will host Boston English at 11 p.m.

WHS SOFTBALL TEAM OPENS SEASON WEDNESDAY

The Winthrop High softball team will open its season next Wednesday (April 10) when the Lady Vikings travel to Mt. Alvernia.

"We're looking to have a good season," said WHS head coach Dave Guffey, whose 2019 squad will be led by senior captains Bella Perrotti and Stephanie Strangie.

Other members of the varsity include senior Cali Peterson; juniors Ashley McGonagle and Nicole Newman; sophomores Sofia Vitale, Nelly Carter, Brooke Costin, Katie Gagnon, Rachel Farley, Syd Crotty, and Taylan Portait; freshmen Ava Martello, Summer Talent, Juliana Guzman, and Leah Espinal; eighth graders McKenzie Margardo, Gabby Golden, Gia Bakos, Olivia McManus, Samantha Harrison, Bridget Hickey, and Kathie Maturo; and seventh grader Adrianna Rizzarro.

"We have a great attitude and I think we will do well his year in a tough league," noted Guffey. The NEC re-aligned into two, eight-team divisions for 2019, with the Lady Vikings being placed with Marblehead, Swampscott, Saugus, Gloucester, Salem, Peabody, Danvers, and Beverly.

Guffey and his crew have had a busy pre-season. Winthrop captured a 4-3 win over Manchester-Essex in which Rachel Farley drove in the winning run and Sofia Vitale pitched well.

The Lady Vikings participated in the annual pre-season jamboree on Cape Cod and engaged in contests with Mashpee, Sunapee, Bay Path, Concord, Nantucket, and Nauset.

"We moved people around to see lots of position and get some ideas," said Guffey. Steph Strangie pitched well in the tournament and Katie Gagnon, Bella Perrotti, and Brooke Costin shone at the plate.

After Wednesday's contest at Mt. Alvernia, the Lady Vikings will host Wakefield next Friday in their home opener.

WHS BOYS LAX LOOKING FORWARD TO START OF SEASON

The Winthrop High boys lacrosse team has been busy preparing for the 2019 season, which will get underway this Saturday when coach Brian Donnelly and his crew host Manchester-Essex on the turf at Miller Field. The opening face-off is set for 11 p.m..

"Our preseason so far has been really excellent," said Donnelly. "For the first time we have been able to get right out on Miller Field, which gave us a huge advantage to get some full-field practices in right away."

Winthrop hosted a Jamboree this past weekend, inviting Stoneham, Mystic Valley, and Northeast Regional to compete in scrimmages.

"We moved the ball really well against both teams," said Donnelly. "We were able to play very strong team defense and went on to win both of our games. We were able to see how our systems work against different teams and compete at a high level."

"We are very excited for the upcoming season," Donnelly continued. "We are returning the majority of our players from last year. We have a four-year starter, Drew DiMento, in goal for us. We have our entire defensive corps coming back in Mike McCone, Jack Silva, James Silva, and Ryan Hovermale, as well as adding some exciting new players, Chris Rodriguez and Tyler Gilson, to the group."

"Our attack is going to be led by returning senior captain Pat Sennott and rounded out by returning varsity starters Aiden Cifuni and Matt Hurlley. We have a small, but effective, midfield group, led by returning starters Luke Evangelista, Austin Daignault, Joe pediatrician and my college goal is to continue playing at least one of my favorite high school sports; hockey, soccer or softball. My preference for college is to stay somewhere on the east coast where I can still stay in close contact with my family.

Who is your role model?

I have many role models but the people who influence me the most are definitely my parents. They push me to be the best person I can possibly be whether that be in or outside of the classroom. Without them I would not be the person I am today. They have always supported my decisions in sports and school. They always put others before themselves including me and they do what's best for me even if we don't see eye to eye.

STUDENT HIGHLIGHT:

By Kate Anslinger

Since Sofia Vitale was 7 years old, she has spent her spring and summer seasons on the softball field, perfecting her pitch while keeping her eye on the ball. It didn't take her long to discover her love of the sport, and an even deeper love for helping others grow in the sport. Since she aged 8-12 during the summer months. In between her games and practices with the East Boston major league, the Winthrop High School softball team, and an AAU team, Team Boston, she helps coach clinics, getting the minor league athletes ready for their upcoming season. Because Team Boston is a tournament team, she practices and takes pitching lessons all year long to stay prepared. During her freshman year, Vitale was awarded as "Rookie of the Year," for starting on the varsity softball team. In addition to softball, Vitale is also a varsity football cheerleader and works at the Winthrop Marketplace in the summer.

How do you juggle sports and school work?

It requires both time management and planning. I make sure each week I know what my schedule looks like and begin to plan out my time. I always make time for my homework; that is my main priority. I go to my sport after school, come home, eat dinner and start my homework almost immediately. A struggle I face is stressing over not finishing my work. That is why I am big on scheduling my time, so that everything gets done, leaving me with less worry. I also make sure that I get a good night's sleep every night so I will not be tired when doing homework, the following day.

What is your favorite subject?

My favorite subject in school is definitely math; algebra in particular. I have never really enjoyed reading or history but have come to really understand anything to do with numbers. Math seems to come more easily to me than anything else. I plan on going to college, though I haven't figured out exactly where I would like to attend or what I would like to do, but I would like to see myself finding an occupation dealing with numbers. I feel it is the best fit for me and very applicable to life.

Who is your role model?

My role model is definitely my dad. My dad supports me in anything and everything I do, especially softball. I play for him. If he were not there at every single game either in the dugout or yelling to me from the stands, at every practice, or constantly showing me videos and tricks to improve myself, I really don't know if I would even still be playing. He is a huge motivation for me, and I am so grateful for him and everything he does. He has made me love the game of softball and keeps me striving to do better. He also has helped us to find something we can bond over every day. I would be nowhere close to where I am now if it were not for him. He is definitely my biggest role model.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

CHELSEA- In a sudden move, District 5 School Committee member Julio Hernandez has resigned – one of the City's up-and-coming political figures that many thought had a big future on the Committee.

Hernandez, a Chelsea High graduate, told the Record this week that it was with a heavy heart that he resigned, and he felt it was necessary as he had to work more hours and attend college at the same time.

"When I ran for office, I had more support from my family," he said. "As rent started getting higher, I knew that I needed more income, and while still being in college, I decided to look at other jobs.

"I loved working in the School Committee, but it also made me angry to see some members not show up to meetings, not ask questions, and not have thorough discussions regarding our students' education," he continued. "Student advocacy has always been my platform, to serve all students the right way. From starting the policy of an outdoor graduation, to having the opportunity to work with many teachers who really care about this community. I now believe School Committee Members should be appointed, because our student's education is no joke."

Hernandez, 20, said college, family and financial constraints hit all at once this year, and he couldn't in good conscience serve on the Committee while not being able to show up.

"I know once I'm done with college, I'll be back to serve the community I love and cherish," he said. "I want to thank all the people who supported me, and are still supporting me in my time of sorrow."

At Monday night's City Council meeting, Council President Damali Vidot said Hernandez had given notice to the City Clerk that he would be stepping down as of April.

Because his resignation is more than 180 days from a City Election, Vidot said the City Charter calls for a joint meeting of the Council and the School Committee within 30 days to appoint a replacement. That replacement would serve through the city election in November, when the position will be on the ballot.

"Julio was an incredible leader during his tenure," said District 5 City Councillor Judith Garcia. "He did an incredible job while on the School Committee and was a great representative for District 5."

Garcia encouraged anyone from District 5 who is interested to apply for the open seat.

However, Councillor-At-Large Roy Avellaneda said the Council and the School Committee may want to leave the position open until the municipal election.

"I may have some reservations about filling the post," said Avellaneda. "There's only one more month until (candidates can) pull papers, and then the election is in November. I feel it may be best to leave the seat unfilled."

Appointing someone to a short-term on the School Committee would give that person a leg up on other candidates who run for the seat in the general election, Avellaneda said.

PLANNING BOARD
APPROVES
MARIJUANA SHOP

CHELSEA - A retail marijuana shop on Webster Avenue near the Home Depot is one step closer to opening in Chelsea.

The Planning Board approved a site plan for a 10,000 square-foot retail marijuana facility at 121 Webster Ave. by The Western Front, LLC.

The pot shop still needs additional approvals from the state's Cannabis Control Commission as well as the local Zoning and Licensing Boards before it can officially open its doors. But local officials have praised the plans for the facility, which is filing for a license to operate under a state economic empowerment provision.

The economic empowerment provision helps provide for minority populations that have faced the brunt of marijuana prohibition punishments achieve social and economic justice, according to Timothy Flaherty, the attorney representing the Western Front team.

The Western Front's board includes a number of Massachusetts business and community leaders who have addressed social justice issues in the past, including board chair Marvin Gilmore.

Gilmore has a long and storied history in the Boston area and beyond. He co-founded Unity Bank and Trust, was a major real estate developer in the Southwest Corridor of Boston, owned the storied Western Front nightclub in Cambridge, and was awarded the Legion of Honor, among other awards, for helping storm the beaches of Normandy in World War II.

Economic empowerment applications get priority for consideration at the Cannabis Control Commission, Flaherty said.

As for the proposed site at 121 Webster Ave., Flaherty said as a stand-alone building in an area with adequate parking, is an optimal site for a retail marijuana facility.

All marijuana products will be shipped in pre-packaged from a wholesaler, and the facility will feature a host of security measures, from cameras the Chelsea Police can immediately access to a what Flaherty called a mind-boggling number of alarms.

Chelsea police officials were satisfied with the security measures for the building, according to John DePriest, the City's planning director.

Inside the shop, plans also call for a future workforce development area and a work bar where consumers can gather before entering the retail sales floor.

The sales area will be like "a cross between a jewelry store and a spa," said Flaherty.

The facility will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., seven days per week. There will be a total of about 25 employees, with eight to 10 working at any given time.

"The goal is to hire 100 percent Chelsea residents," said Flaherty.

All those employees will be trained and certified by the Cannabis Control Commission.

"I'm impressed by the group before us and their commitment to social justice," said Council President Damali Vidot.

District 3 City Councillor Joe Perlatonda also said he was very impressed with the organization and happy that they are committed to hiring Chelsea residents.

ORDER SEEKS TO ABOLISH LIBRARIES
BOARD

EVERETT - A measure proposed by Councillor Richard Dell Isola Jr. to amend the City's administrative code would effectively abolish the Everett Libraries Board of Trustees.

The measure wasn't an open and shut decision, though, as it invited significant pushback from the local community, who turned out in large numbers on Monday night to speak on behalf of the public library system.

The Everett Libraries are governed by a Board of 13 Trustees nominated by the Mayor. Their extensive responsibilities include setting library policy, approving expenses, overseeing special funds, vetting candidates for Library Director and maintaining all library buildings. Trustees often advocate for public libraries and their importance to the local community.

"The Board of Trustees is a very important role," resident Patty Cheever told Council. "It was troubling to a lot of people that this change was being made without public input."

Resident Samantha Lambert, also a Library Trustee, said, "Libraries are more than buildings, they are contributions to the character of our city. Libraries offer our cities places of respite in times of need, a haven where people can find their own conclusions."

Lambert urged the Council to consider input from the Board of Trustees, and also mentioned the many library resources that benefit local families that otherwise would not be available to them, like coding classes and programs for people with special needs.

Gerly Adrien, Everett resident and former candidate for state representative, also loaned her voice in support of library trustees, calling them "powerful advocates for our city."

Councillor Rosa DiFlorio motioned to postpone the vote on this issue for another two weeks until the next Council meeting. She also agreed that there should be robust community input until that point.

Councillor Anthony DiPierro asked to amend the motion to include a detailed presentation on the "reason and rationale" behind every change to the current administrative code.

Councillor Peter Napolitano mentioned that the last time there were changes to the city code six years ago, there had been a comprehensive presentation. He urged the Council to "give the powers that be the time they need to get a decent presentation together."

City Solicitor Colleen Mejia said she would need at least two weeks to get together the presentation requested by Council. At the close

Fire Lt. John Rich commended for his 2018 life-saving actions

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

Fire Department Lieutenant John Rich was on his way to work, stopping at Dun-kin Donuts on May 24, 2018 when he drove past the corner of Pleasant and Palmyra streets he noticed smoke coming from a house. It was around 6:15 a.m.

As he approached the house he heard screams for help coming from the first floor.

Tuesday night in front of the town council Rich was pinned with the Lifesaving Commendation bar.

Rich entered the house with very heavy smoke and located two people and led them to safety. Rich even rescued small dog from behind the couch on his second time in.

Rich was then told there was another man in the building, Pedro Cordano. The two met each other on the staircase. Rich then dialed 911 to report the fire.

It was a fully-engulfed cellar fire.

"That day I was completely asleep and not aware of the fire," Cordano said. "He went door to door pounding and screaming. I have no words to say thank you. Thank you to the Winthrop Fire Department and the great personnel."

Rich said it was the smoke detectors that saved everyone in the house.

"After the excitement of the morning Lt. Rich did show up for work," joked Fire Chief Paul Flanagan.

Last January when it was below zero Rich worked to pump out numerous basements.

He was appointed to the fire department in Sept. 1986, and

Lt. John Rich, center, is surrounded by his fellow firefighters and the town council.

JOE HARVARD, FT. APACHE FOUNDER DIES

EAST BOSTON - In the 1980s an East Boston guy had an idea to create a Boston recording studio that would authentically capture the emerging alternative Boston music scene. Fort Apache in Roxbury was born and artists like The Pixies, The Lemonheads, Dinosaur Jr., Morphine, Buffalo Tom, and The Mighty Mighty Bosstones were given the freedom to experiment and capture the energy of their music without sterilization.

One can argue that without Eastie's Joe Harvard the world may have never heard The Pixies. Without The Pixies and their influence on later artists like Kurt Cobain one can also argue there would have never been Nirvana and without Nirvana the grunge explosion of the early 1990s that defined a decade would have never occurred.

Harvard, an accomplished musician, music producer, artist and all-around great soul passed away on Sunday, March 24 after a courageous battle with cancer. He was 60 years old.

Harvard, who was born in Jeffries Point as Joe Incagnoli, had been living in Asbury Park, N.J., since 2001 where he emerged as a leading force in the town's art and music scene renaissance.

Harvard was diagnosed with Stage 4 liver cancer late last year and documented his daily struggle with the disease through honest, and sometimes heartwrenching, social media posts.

All the while Harvard remained optimistic and continued his art and music until the end, and telling friends back in Eastie he was fighting the disease like an, "East Boston tornado!"

Sadly Harvard stopped treatment and succumbed to the disease on Sunday. His death was announced by longtime partner Mallory Messara.

"Joe passed early this morning with me and his sister by his side. Aidan arrived late last night in time to say goodbye," said Massara. "I believe Joe was waiting for her. He went very peacefully. I sang 'Sunday Morning' to him as the sun rose. Then opened a book of Rumi poems to read to him. He had one 'bookmarked', like he left it for me knowing that would be the book I picked out of the thousand on the shelf. 'Parable of the World.' And then I opened the sliding glass door to let his soul out. I figured if it was anywhere as big as his personality it would need more room than a window."

Harvard was born and raised in Eastie and attended local schools. In a short YouTube documentary about his life produced by Messara, Harvard drove around his old stomping grounds in Jeffries Point, pointed out the bar where he shined shoes while his father held court inside, and visited his childhood home.

Harvard graduated from Harvard University and the Ivy Leaguer got the 'Harvard' nickname while working in a Cambridge record store while attending college.

In 1986, with fellow Ivy Leaguers and friends Sean Slade, Jim Fitting and Paul Kolderie, Harvard founded Fort Apache Studio in Roxbury.

If you were into music, I mean really into music in the 1980s and early 1990s, WFNX was the only station you listened to and local bands like The Pixies were your rock gods.

If you ate, slept and breathed the alternative scene during that time you knew of and respected Fort Apache for the enormous talent it recorded for over a decade. Bands like The Pixies, Juliana Hatfield, The Lemonheads, The Mighty Mighty Bosstones, Dinosaur Jr., Belly and Buffalo Tom were just some of the major groups and artists that either got their start or recorded at Fort Apache and later artists like Radiohead and Hole used the studio that became synonymous with Alternative Rock. Harvard briefly became sole owner, and the studio became very active recording Boston-area indie-rock groups.

"We were the most grossly over educated rock music studio in the history of the f#@%ing world," said Harvard in an article for the Consequence of Sound's feature on the history of Fort Apache. "It was our attitude that really made people come. If you wanted to put a microphone in the toilet — which we did — or if you wanted to put a microphone down your pants — which we did — we didn't give a s!@#. We were willing to try it and give you the benefit of the doubt. Not all of it stuck to the wall, but some of it ended up being really brilliant. I went out every night. I went to The Rat and told people, 'We have a studio! You've got to come and check it out.' Climbing that mountain was a lot of fun. It was all about, Let's find some great bands and make some records that don't suck."

Harvard, who never forgot his Eastie roots, visited Zumix Firehouse in 2015 to play a show during a benefit for the community's youth music and arts program.

After the show, Harvard mingled with guests, talked music with the younger folks, signed other people's copies of the Legendary Locals of East Boston book (he is featured as is his father, Joe Incagnoli) and was amazed at how great the Zumix Firehouse on Sumner Street came out.

"At the height of Fort Apache I wanted to buy this old beat up firehouse in my neighborhood and turn it into Fort Apache East Teen Center," said Harvard. "I can't begin to say how impressed I am with what these guys (Zumix) have built there and how amazed I am at the quality of musicianship I was hearing in every classroom and studio or how proud I am as a fourth generation Jeffries Point 'homeboy' to see a world class facility like this in Eastie. I have a very good imagination but it would have paled in comparison to Zumix. They rock!"

SPRING SPORTS START UP

Spring is here and Winthrop High athletics are in full swing. Last Saturday, March 30, WHS Lacrosse took on Northeast Metro Tech while the WHS Baseball team went head-to-head against Brookline.

STOP HERE: Brian Chalmers (44) slows down any progress this Northeast forward planned.

NOT THIS TIME: Shortstop Ryan Skoczylas tries to retrieve an errant throw as a Brookline runner starts his dive as he steals second base.

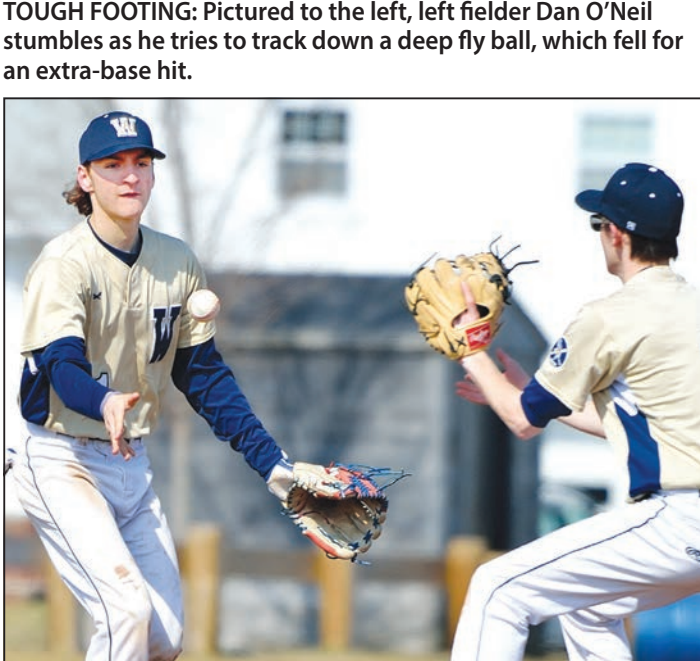

THROW THE BALL TO HIM: Coach Frank DeMarco (middle) gives some instructions to his battery, pitcher Christian Nattareno and catcher Miles Albert.

FOLLOW ME: Chris Ferrara (11) carries the ball as he is pursued by a Northeast defender.

I DON'T LIKE IT: Ryan Buccini lays off a high pitch.

EASY DOES IT: Shortstop Ryan Skoczylas flips the ball to second baseman Dan Gillis for an easy play at second on the front end of a double play.

ATTRACTING A CROWD: Pat Sennott (2) tries to avoid a crowd of converging Northeast defenders.

CONTACT POINT: Steve Perullo (18) and a Northeast forward collide as they fight for a loose ball.

ESCAPE ROUTE: Chris Rodriguez (6) outruns a Northeast defender.
