Special to the Transcript

Cottage Park The Yacht Club recently hosted a successful weekend of events to benefit the Founda-Make-A-Wish tion, which supports children and families facing critical illnesses.

Featuring adult and youth sailing regattas, a dinner, and an auction, the weekend helped to raise more than $34,000, enough money to sponsor three wishes for children and their families.

"This event is personal for us as we have met the children and families who have benefited and had a chance to see what a difference it makes in their lives," said Commo-

Town Council spares tree by 5-4 vote

A single oak tree dominated the debate at the Town Council meeting on Tuesday, August 16, with the council voting 5-4 not to cut down the tree on public land in front of a private home on 190 Somerset Ave.

The owners of the Somerset Avenue home requested the town cut the tree down over a year ago and had the support of a number of nearby residents. They claimed the tree was blocking the sidewalk, impairing handicap accessibility, had caused several injuries, and was damaging the foundation of their home.

On the other side, the members of the town's tree commission pointed to several reports stating that the tree was healthy, and that the town does not have the authority to cut down a healthy tree on public land. "Oaks are good, strong

Council seeks remediation from Massport for runway project

The Winthrop Town Council has signed onto a letter asking Massport to provide additional remediation efforts in relation to the planned runway safety area improvement project for Runway 27 at Logan Airport.

"This is a runway safety area improvement, it is not a runway extension," said Precinct 3 Councilor Hannah Belcher, who wrote the letter, at the council's August 16 meeting. "The draft environmental impact report came back from Massport. It was open for public comment and they extended the period from the 8th to the 22nd, which gave us time to get a letter in front of the council to sign and send over."

Belcher said the draft report didn't mention a lot of Winthrop-specific issues because the scope of the project is entirely within Boston boundaries.

"But it undoubtedly impacts our waterways toward Snake Island and the Elks," said Belcher. "The letter outlines that we understand the importance of this (runway project) and that it's a safety issue and an FAA mandate however it asks for a few things, like air quality monitors and studies, and we ask them to speed up the sound insulation project, and we are asking for funding for trees." Councilor-At-Large Tracey Honan thanked Belcher for working on the letter to Massport.

"It is very pragmatic and well written," said Honan. "We know this project has to happen because it is an FAA requirement, however, I was pleased to see

There were 41 people who changed from Precinct 1 to Precinct 5, 53 from Precinct 4 to Precinct 6, 93 from Precinct 6 to Precinct 1, 52 from Precinct 4 to Precinct 6, and 109 from Precinct 1 to Precinct 2.

"Hopefully, this will not happen again for another 10 years," said Quist.

ministrative staff of over what has been accom- years, and what he wants plished over the past nine to do in the future.

TURCO ENDORSES TOMPKINS

State Rep. Jeffrey Turco recently endorsed Sheriff Steve Thompkins for re-election to his role as Suffolk County Sheriff, saying, "As a former Special Sheriff of Worcester County, a lifelong resident of Suffolk County and now as a State Representative, I have watched Steve Tompkins become a leader in corrections reform in Massachusetts and nationally. To hear Sheriff Tompkins talk about the meaning of both "care" and "custody" gives you an instant understanding of his kindness, his compassion and his boldness. The people of Suffolk County are fortunate to have a leader of his caliber as our Sheriff and I proudly urge the people of Suffolk County to vote to re-elect Steve Tompkins in the September 6 Democratic primary."

In Loving Memory

Stephen VanDalinda

4th Anniversary

What I would give to hold Stephen's hand,

His happy face to kiss,

To hear Stephen's voice and see his smile,

That meant so much to us.

In Loving Memory

May you see God's light on the path ahead

When the road you walk is dark.

May you always hear,

Even in your hour of sorrow,

The gentle singing of the lark.

When times are hard may hardness

Never turn your heart to stone,

May you always remember when the shadows fall -

You do not walk alone.

All types of services for all types of people.

Some people prefer traditional funeral services. Others prefer cremation.

Some want an elaborate ceremony.

Then there are others who don't want any ceremony at all. When it comes to funerals, there are as many options as there are people. And we take pride in being able to say we offer them all.

UNEMPLOYMENT RATE SEES SMALL DROP FOR JULY

The state's July total unemployment rate dropped by two-tenths of a percentage point at 3.5 percent over-the-month, the Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development announced Friday. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' preliminary job estimates indicate Massachusetts gained 13,500 jobs in July. This follows last month's revised gain of 5,800 jobs. The largest over the month private sector job gains were in Professional and Busi-Services, Education and Health Services, and Other Services. Employment now stands at 3,680,100. Since the employment trough in April

Massachusetts

gained 629,100 jobs. From July 2021 to July 2022, BLS estimates Massachusetts gained 134,500 jobs. The largest over the year gains occurred in Professional, Scientific, and Business Services, Leisure and Hospitality, and Education and Health Services.

The July unemployment rate of 3.5 percent was the same as the national rate reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The labor force decreased by an estimated 7,500 from 3,773,100 in June, as 800 more residents were employed, and 8,300 fewer residents were unemployed overthe-month.

Over-the-year, state's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was down by 2.2 percentage points. The state's labor force participation rate - the total number of residents 16 or older who worked or were unemployed and actively sought work in the last four weeks - was down two-tenths of a percentage point at 65.8 percent. Compared to July 2021, the labor force participation rate was up 0.2 percentage points.

Winthrop students start new school year on Aug. 31.

By Cary Shuman

Winthrop students will begin the new academic year on Wednesday, Aug.

Supt. of Schools Lisa Howard and Interim Assistant Supt. Lori Gallivan will join Winthrop High School Principal Matt Crombie, Middle School Principal Brian Curley, Cummings Elementary School Principal Andrea O'Leary, and Gorman Fort Banks Elementary School Principal Ilene Pearson and their respective staffs in welcoming back more than 2,000 students to the schools.

Town Council President James Letterie, who serves on the School Committee, wished the students well as the summer unofficially closes and the school year

"I wish all the students a great school year," said Letterie. "This is probably the first time in twoand-half school years that we're having a normal school opening with no restrictions due to COVID. I encourage the citizens to be very cognizant of the approximately 2,000 students that will be traveling to and from school and to be extremely cautious driving on the streets."

Letterie noted that Supt. Howard is seeking to hire additional crossing guards and interested persons may apply for the positions through the superintendent's office.

Matt Serino returns in his role as director of athletics. The high school sports teams have begun pre-season practices.

One era ends, another begins at Winthrop School of Performing Arts

Staff Report

The Winthrop School of Performing arts begins its 37th season teaching children the art of dance, acting, voice and instruments, there will be a new director at its head.

Trudy Macero, founder of and director of WSPA, has decided to join her husband John Macero, former Superintendent of Winthrop Public Schools and Stoneham Public Schools, in his recent retirement.

Ms. Macero founded WSPA 36 years ago when she took over the Tassinari and Tirrell studio at the Wadsworth building on Winthrop St. Since then the school has become a staple in the community for those children interested in Performing.

Trudy and her husband John spent many years on the stage themselves at the Winthrop Playmakers. When not performing, John often directed and Trudy choreographed shows for the Playmakers.

Trudy began her career as a professional singer in the Boston area and was picked up and signed by the William Morris agency in NY where she began touring the country with her own show band. She studied dance throughout her childhood and so it was a dream to start her own school in which she could offer a full program for the performing arts for kids.

"This was not an easy decision as I love what I do, and I love being around the kids and watching them progress through the years" Macero said regarding her retirement. Macero stated,

"It has been an honor and a privilege these past 36 years to serve the fam-community. I can't tell you ilies and children of this how much joy it has personally given me. I look forward to sitting in the audience next year and just enjoying the beautiful faces of these children and watching them develop, and I am thrilled to have one of my very own, long time, teachers taking over the reins".

Alicia Colangelo (Januario) will be the new head of WSPA

Alicia has been involved in the local dance community most of her life. Growing up in Revere, she discovered her passion for dance as a student at The Agnes Strecker Dance Studio throughout her adolescent and young adult life. Teaching children of all ages at numerous local dance studios and the "For Kids Only" afterschool program for Revere and Everett school systems in previous years. Studios include Agnes Strecker Dance Studio, Rachel Ferrante's Academy of Performing Arts, Beat Connections in Saugus, and currently the Winthrop School of Performing Arts in Winthrop (WSPA). Alicia has been working with WSPA for over a decade and is honored to have the opportunity to carry on the legacy of founder Trudy Macero. Alicia states-

"Dance is my passion and I am happiest when I am teaching." I believe teaching dance is about more than the techniques you execute on the dance floor-it's about encouraging creativity, teamwork, collaboration self- expression, discipline relationships and more importantly, building selfconfidence. This is truly a dream come true and I can't wait for the dance season to start!" You can contact Winthrop School of Performing Arts at 617-846-5299 or by email WSPAinformation@ gmail.com. Or at stageperformers.com.

Winthrop Public Schools funded to provide free school meals to all students

Special to the Transcript

Public Winthrop Schools will be participating in the National School Lunch Program and the School Breakfast Program. As part of this program, all schools will offer healthy meals every school day. The Massachusetts legislature has provided funding to make meals available at no cost to all students during school year 2022-2023, regardless of household income. However, families should still complete a Meal Benefit Application as this provides data for key funding for academic resources and may also connect families to additional benefits. This data will also support the additional funds provided by the Commonwealth for this pilot.

Qualifications for children to receive free or reduced price meals include: belonging to a household whose income is at or below the Federal Income Eligibility Guidelines, belonging to a household that receives public assistance, or if the child is homeless, migrant, runaway, foster, or participates in a Head Start or Even Start pre-K

Household size and income criteria are used to determine eligibility for free and reduced-price benefits if the household does not receive assistance or the children are

To apply for free or reduced-price meals, house¬holds can fill out the application and return it to the school unless the household has already received notification that their children are approved for free meals this year. Application forms are being distributed to all households with a letter informing households of the availability of free and reduced-price meals for their children and what is required to complete on the application. Applications also are avail¬able on the district website.

Only one application is required for all children in the household and the information provided on the appli¬ca¬tion will be used for the purpose of eligibility determining and verification of data. Applications may be verified at any time during the school year by the school or other program officials. An application for free or reduced-price benefits cannot be approved unless it contains complete eligibility information as indicated on the application and instructions. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Families can apply for benefits at any time. If a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size increases, the household should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for benefits if the household's income falls at or below the Federal Guidelines. Bringing Out Their Best

For 40 years, Beverly Richards has been instilling joy and self-confidence in students

By Cary Shuman

Beverly Richards, who grew up in East Boston and has devoted her entire life to promoting the positive lifelong advantages of dance, is excited.

The start of the new dance season is fast approaching and she's preparing another fun-filled year of dance instruction and performances for her students, just as she's done for the past four decades as the owner of the legendary Beverly Richards Dance Center on Bennington Street.

From the Heights to the Patriots

Beverly Richards lived in Orient Heights during her childhood. She attended St. Lazarus School in East Boston and Saint Rose High School in Chelsea. She received her degree in Physical Education and Performing Arts as graduate of the first class following the merger of Boston State College and UMass Boston in 1982.

"I was a cheerleader for Saint Dominic Savio High School and when the school went coed, I was their cheerleading coach," recalled Richards, further establishing her roots in East Boston. "I was the choreographer for the Boston College dance team from 1994 to 1997 and choreographed their performance for the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade [in New York City). Then I became the cheerleading coach at St. Mary's (Lynn)."

But any story about Beverly Richards' phenomenal career in the field of dance and secondary education must include her pioneering days as a member of the New England Patriots cheerleading team.

A star athlete on the gymnastics team at Boston with the New England Patriots. "Whenever you needed someone to go to an event and volunteer for a charity, she was always front and center ready to help out," said Shannon. "Beverly was a beautiful talent, an incredible dancer, and always a bright sunshine. And her family was phenomenal, too." How It All Began Beverly Richards was

"I had a group of East Boston students who used to sit on the front steps of my house where I grew up," recalled Richards. "They would wait for me to come home from college to teach dance to them at Noyes Park. So, my parents (James and Marion Richards) said, 'Why don't we just find a place?' And I said, 'Okay, no problem' – and that's how it all started."

"One of those original students was Gayle Moran Norcross, who helped out

"I love dancing," said Beverly. "I love the rapport with the kids. I love watching them grow and their education enhance. I think a reason why I'm still around, is that we do a lot of community service. Our dancers performed at the Fishermen's Feast Friday and at Eastie Pride Day Saturday."

The next generation in the Richards/Buckley family has taken the stage. Beverly's granddaughter, 4-year-old Emma Buckley, daughter of James and Katie Buckley, has been a student at the Dance Center since the age of two. She also has a oneyear-old grandson, Tanner Buckley.

This week Beverly will celebrate 35 years of marriage to her husband, Michael Buckley, a professional singer and retired band director at Melrose High School.

And come the week of September 12, Beverly Richards will begin anew - continuing her legacy of making East Boston kids' futures brighter and better, gifted with a combination of confidence, self-esteem, and teamwork that comes through dancing and performing.

OUR Opinions

THE MWRA IS DOING A GREAT JOB

Residents in our newspapers' circulation area in Greater Boston probably are unaware that most of the communities in Massachusetts are enduring drought conditions that have resulted in the imposition of severe water-use

But here in Greater Boston, there is not even the mention of a drought or restrictions of any kind.

That's because the Quabbin Reservoir, which provides us with our water, is at an astonishing (given the drought) level of 92 percent capacity.

The MWRA has been around for more than 30 years and is best-known for its massive sewage treatment plant on Deer Island that has turned Boston Harbor from the most-polluted harbor in America into a jewel of an environmental resource that contributes hundreds of millions of dollars annually to the Mass. economy. We recall that as youngsters growing up on Pt. Shirley in Winthrop in the 1960s, we were warned that we could not swim in Winthrop Harbor because of the "pollution." The algae that flourished on the mudflats at low tide was so foul that it literally peeled the paint off the homes along the Winthrop harbor shoreline. When we had a sailboat in the 1980s, the water was so gross throughout Boston Harbor and the islands that we did not want to jump in for a swim even in the Outer Harbor.

But the other, unsung "job" of the MWRA is to provide water to its 40 or so communities from the Quabbin, and in that regard, the MWRA also has performed in exemplary fashion.

We'll be the first to admit that we know nothing about water systems. To be sure, innovations such as low-flow toilets, as well as the high cost of water, no doubt have contributed to the per capita reduction in water usage in the Boston area from when the MWRA took over the system from the MDC back in the 1980s.

Unquestionably, aggressive leak-detection and other programs, spearheaded by dedicated public servants, have been the key ingredients in the secret sauce, so to speak, of the MWRA's outstanding water management program since its inception.

Our late grandmother, Zita Quigley, (whom we loved dearly, but who was a master at playing the martyr role, if you know what we mean), used to say (after we would compliment her for something or other), "Oh, thank you - because you know, even a dog likes a pat on the head every once in a while."

So consider this our "pat on the head" to the folks at the MWRA for their excellent management of our water system. Thanks to them, we who live in the MWRA's cities and towns literally are an oasis amongst the drought-stricken communities who are not within the MWRA district.

ROBERT KRAFT BELONGS IN THE HALL OF FAME

As we are writing this early in the week, the Pro Football Hall of Fame's Coach/Contributor Committee is getting ready to meet to select one of 12 nominees for inclusion in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in the Class of 2023. That nominee then must go to the full selection committee for a final vote for inclusion.

Among the nominees is our own Robert Kraft, the owner of the New England Patriots.

With all due respect to the other 11 nominees (for the record, they are Roone Arledge, Don Coryell, Mike Holmgren, Frank "Bucko" Kilroy, Art Modell, Buddy Parker, Dan Reeves, Art Rooney Jr., Mike Shanahan, Clark Shaughnessy and John Wooten), there is no one affiliated with the NFL who deserves inclusion in the Hall of Fame more than Mr. Kraft.

We formerly were Patriot season ticket-holders (we have not been for almost 30 years) from the time the franchise began in 1960. We attended games at Braves Field, Fenway Park, and Harvard Stadium before the Pats finally moved to their own stadium in Foxboro in 1972, the much-maligned Schaefer Stadium, which was built on the cheap and was outdated within a decade of its construction.

But what many present-day Patriots' fans may not realize is that the franchise was on the verge of moving to St. Louis -- which was offering a sweet deal on a new, state-of-the art, domed stadium -- until Mr. Kraft (who himself had been a Pats' fan from the beginning) stepped in to purchase the team in 1994 in order to keep it in New

Mr. Kraft not only totally changed the culture of the Patriots' organization, but he constructed Gillette Stadium with no public funding. He assumed the entire risk not only of buying a moribund franchise, but also of constructing a $325 million stadium.

Over the course of the ensuing 28 years, the New England Patriots have been one of the most successful sports franchises, not only in pro football, but in the entire world, under Mr. Kraft's leadership.

But beyond all of their Super Bowl titles, the Patriots and the Kraft family also have set the standard for what it means to be a good corporate citizen. Among their endeavors with which we directly are familiar through our sister newspaper in Chelsea is the Jordan Boys and Girls Club in Chelsea, of which Josh Kraft is the CEO, and for which the Krafts were among the major donors for the $11 million complex. And we all recall that during the darkest days of the pandemic, the Krafts used the Patriots' team jet and set up the logistics to bring 1.2 million desperately-needed face masks to this area from China.

So we fervently hope that the Hall of Fame committees see their way to nominate and name Mr. Kraft for enshrinement in Canton, Ohio. Together with his beloved, late wife Myra, who typically sat side-by-side with each other at every Patriots' game, Bob Kraft has set the standard of excellence not only for football, but for ownership of sports teams the world over. We may be living in a cynical world, but Bob Kraft has brought more joy to our area than anyone we can think of -- and isn't that what sports are all about?

DRISCOLL, LISS-RIORDAN, GALVIN AND DEMPSEY ARE THE BEST CHOICES IN THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

Dear Editor,

In the upcoming Democratic State Primary on September 6th, there are several good candidates for the contested statewide offices of Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, and

The questions that voters have to answer for themselves are: Who has the best executive experience to serve as Lieutenant Governor with Maura Healey as Governor? Who has the most experience as a successful practicing attorney to be "The People's Lawyer" as Attorney General? Who can you trust to oversee our elections and the other important functions of the Secretary of State's Office? Who has the best experience and vision to do the job of Auditor?

Executive positions such as Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State and Auditor require different skills from that of a state legislator, city councilor, or advocate.

These positions require real management experience in addition to leadership skills.

Kim Driscoll was elected Salem's first woman Mayor in 2005 on a platform of professional, inclusive, and transparent government and she has been enthusiastically re-elected as Mayor every term since. Kim took office when Salem was in tough shape and turned its government around with efficiencies and revitalized Salem's downtown. She has been endorsed for Lieutenant Governor by the Massachusetts Democratic Party, labor unions and progressive organizations, and elected officials at the state, county, and local level across the Commonwealth. Kim Driscoll knows how to get things done in government and she will be a great partner to Maura Healey as her tiff lawyers in the country, winning groundbreaking lawsuits on behalf of waitresses, truck drivers, firefighters, janitors, and Uber drivers who have been denied overtime, minimum wage, and other wage protections. She got used to being the only woman in the courtroom, up against better-funded, more experienced attorneys. Despite the odds, Shannon still found ways to win, and argued and won six landmark cases in front of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. That is why she has been endorsed by the Massachusetts AFL-CIO and 50 other local unions. elected officials around the state. Shannon Liss-Riordan has big ideas and the experience to deliver big results for the people of Massachusetts as their Attorney General.

Secretary of State Bill Galvin has become a national leader in elections administration and financial services oversight. As the Commonwealth's chief elections official, he has a proven record of running fair, accurate, and secure elections. Secretary Galvin has been a supporter of Election Day registration and has been a strong advocate for making Vote by Mail permanent in Massachusetts. As Census liaison, he oversaw complete and accurate counts in 2000, 2010 and 2020 ensuring that our state is fully represented in Washington and gets its fair share of federal funding. Secretary Galvin also serves as the chief securities regulator in Massachusetts, and he has worked tirelessly to protect investors and the integrity of the financial markets, recovering millions on behalf of citizens who have fallen victim to financial fraud. Bill Galvin was recently endorsed by the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) for re-election stating, "Secretary of the Commonwealth William Galvin has led an ambitious fight to protect and expand voting rights in Massachusetts.... He has also demonstrated the great value of experience in the post." Chris Dempsey is a proven watchdog for the public interest who will ernment uses its public resources effectively and fairly as your next State Auditor. In 2015, he led the grassroots campaign No Boston Olympics which was successful despite being outspent 1500-1 by some of the most powerful corporate interests in the state. Chris was named "Bostonian of the Year" by the Boston Globe Magazine for this work. He also served as Assistant Secretary of Transportation for Governor Deval Patrick where he co-founded the MassDOT open-data program which launched smartphone applications that tell transit riders when their bus or train is going to arrive. Chris has been endorsed by the Massachusetts Democratic Party, current Auditor Suzanne Bump, elected officials at the state and local levels, and leading progressive and environmental organizations. Recently, The Boston Globe endorsed Chris Dempsey stating, "Dempsey is Democrats' best pick for auditor...he has the experience to do the job with a fresh focus on new priorities fitting the times we live in."

TIME TO SAVE OUR EARTH

Dear Editor,

Our home, Earth, is in great danger. Unfortunately, we have not been respecting nor taking care of it. In the past 10-20 years we have seen and felt catastrophic occurrences that have affected our planet. We are experiencing drastic, hotter temperatures; warm rising oceanic waters; increased flooding, severe droughts, destructive storms and fires. All of this has impacted us and those across the world detrimentally. resulting in hunger, destruction of homes, property, natural resources, and the loss of human life.

The culprit of this crisis is our use of fossil fuels (oil, gas and coal). Those fuels cause destruction of our atmosphere which compromises the air that we breathe, contributing to the drastic increase of respiratory diseases.

Wildlife, trees and their habitats are also being destroyed. The destruction of trees, one of our main sources of oxygen, allows the increased production of greenhouse gases (carbon dioxide, methane, nitrous oxide). These gases cause "solar energy" on our Earth's surface to be absorbed instead of radiating back into space.

Research has shown:

- Over 18 million people in the Horn of Africa are suffering from severe hunger due to a 4 year drought. Children are dying from starvation all across our world.
- Wildfires are burning our precious trees and forests, depriving us of oxygen and habitats across our western states and across Europe and Asia.
- Arctic researchers have found that the climate change has increased temperatures four to seven times faster than previously recorded. This increased temperature has caused the ice caps to melt more quickly, contributing to rising seas which is having devastating effects on all of the habitats of the world!

Who is to blame? It is imperative that we stop the major corporate companies controlling the production of fossil fuels, including the leading banking systems who support them. It is up to us to spread the truth regarding pollutants and to force these indifferent companies to tell the truth.

Timing is critical. The need for grass roots organizations is now! We need to continue urging our country's government to support Solar energy. Solar power does not emit any greenhouse gases and therefore does not contribute to climate change. The leading countries of the world must support thirdworld countries by helping them to install solar energy. We are all citizens of the world. The future of our planet and our chil-

ARTICLE 964 - WINTHROP'S HOUSES OF WORSHIP-THE BAPTIST SOCIETY

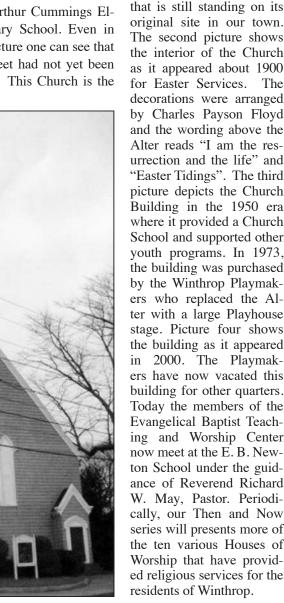

In 1867 a group of Winthrop residents formed a Baptist Society which initially held meetings in the Town Hall then located where the current Police Station is today. In 1871 they began meeting in the Grammar School and voted themselves into a Baptist Church, formed a Society and extended a call to the Reverend F.A. Lockwood of North Springfield Vermont to become their Pastor. As the congregation grew so did their desire for their own House of Worship. Land was purchased on Hermon Street for $177.40 at the junction of Belcher Street and a building was constructed for $12,224 as shown in picture one. This building was dedicated as the "First Baptist Church of Winthrop" on May 5, 1873. The initial construction of Hermon Street began at the Main Street end, as early as 1855, to accommodate a couple of nearby homes. During the next fifteen years, the road progressed slowly toward Columbia Square (now known as Metcalf Square) with portions of it on pilings as it passed by what is now the site of the new Arthur Cummings Elementary School. Even in this picture one can see that the street had not yet been paved. This Church is the oldest building constructed for religious services that is still standing on its original site in our town. The second picture shows the interior of the Church as it appeared about 1900 for Easter Services. The decorations were arranged by Charles Payson Floyd and the wording above the Alter reads "I am the resurrection and the life" and "Easter Tidings". The third picture depicts the Church Building in the 1950 era where it provided a Church School and supported other youth programs. In 1973, the building was purchased by the Winthrop Playmakers who replaced the Alter with a large Playhouse stage. Picture four shows the building as it appeared in 2000. The Playmakers have now vacated this building for other quarters. Today the members of the Evangelical Baptist Teaching and Worship Center now meet at the E. B. Newton School under the guidance of Reverend Richard W. May, Pastor. Periodically, our Then and Now series will presents more of the ten various Houses of

ZAMPANTI GRADUATES FROM ASSUMPTION UNIVERSITY

Michael Zampanti, of Winthrop, was one of nearly 400 graduates to receive a bachelor's degree during Assumption University's 105th Commencement exercises on Sunday, May 8, at the DCU Center in downtown Worcester. Larry Lucchino, Boston Red Sox Hall of Famer and chairman and principal owner of the Worcester Red Sox, delivered the commencement address, thanking the University for its partnership with the Worcester Red Sox and imparting upon the Class of 2022 advice gleaned over five decades in baseball and in law.

"I am well aware that my presence here is a reflection of the close bond that has been quickly established between the Woo Sox and Assumption," Lucchino said. "We share a commitment to serve this community and its people. We share a new ballpark where Assumption's name is featured prominently. In fact, [Assumption's] vision, your loyalty, and your early commitment helped pave the way for that ballpark and its extraordinary reception."

Lucchino imparted that since his college graduation 55 years ago, he's "learned a few things about what to do in life, and what not to do." He admitted that as a baseball executive, he doesn't have all the answers, but hoped his personal top ten list of life lessons amassed from over "four unexpected decades as a baseball executive, and several decades of errors, missteps, and regrets," might help someone along the way. The lessons included having fun; being bold; smiling; being strong enough to say, "I don't know"; remembering that life is too hard to be lived alone; working at friendship; seeking balance; remembering Jackie Robinson and the "catalytic effect one person can have on a community, on a nation, on a compelling cause, or on a nagging injustice"; embracing and celebrating "the pluralism and diversity that are the essence or American life"; and being a positive force in one's community.

"Life is not about warming yourself by the fire, it's about building the fire," said Lucchino, a three-time cancer survivor who has invested himself in cancer research and care. "The match that lights that fire is generosity. To consider yourself and to be considered capable is good. To consider yourself and be considered loving is even better. But best of all is to know yourself as generous. Generosity is its own reward. There is a Chinese proverb that applies and roughly it says if you want happiness for an hour, take a nap. If you want happiness for a lifetime, help your brothers and sisters in the community."

In his last commencement address, President Emeritus Francesco C. Cesareo, Ph.D., who retired on June 30, congratulated the graduates for earning their degrees "in the midst of extraordinary circumstances." He added that the pandemic provided them with "an education beyond what you could have learned in your coursework," because the framework of the Catholic liberal education allowed students to use the pandemic as a learning experience.

"You learned that you have the ability to overcome adversity, to navigate the unexpected and to look for the positive in the midst of challenges," he said. "You have shown yourself to be resilient despite the obstacles. You have learned the value of sacrificing one's wants for the benefit of others, striving always for the common good. While you may not immediately perceive it, your characters are stronger, and you have become a better person because of what you have learned through the pandemic." In his valedictorian speech. Leominster native Nicholas Macchione '22 compared an Assumption education to a Swiss army knife. "If you only could have one tool to serve you for the rest of your life, wouldn't you want it to be applicable to whatever you might encounter? The same sentiment rings true in education," he shared. "An Assumption liberal arts education is similarly suited to a wide variety of careers and vocations."

Macchione encouraged his classmates that "in the world of specialization that requires elaborate job titles, obtuse degrees, and the labeling of so-called experts, let us take time to unfold our Swiss army knives, recall the things that have brought us to where we are today, and trust that they will continue to take us wherever we need to go."

During the ceremony, honorary degrees were presented to Lucchino; Francesca "Paqui" Kelly, co-founder and board president of the Kelly Cares Foundation; and Wendy M. Wright, Ph.D., professor emerita of theology at Creighton University. The Board of Trustees also bestowed honorary degrees upon President Emeritus Cesareo and his wife, Filomena Cesareo, Esq., J.D., for their 15 years of service to Assumption.

FIVE ALARM FIRE IN CHELSEA

CHELSEA - A fivealarm fire early Wednesday at a Cottage Street triple-decker duplex sent four residents and two firefighters to the hospital.

The six people taken to local hospitals are expected to be okay, according to officials.

Mutual aid companies from Boston, Cambridge, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Revere, Saugus, Somerville, and Winthrop, assisted at the scene. Companies from Belmont, Boston, Cambridge, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Revere, Somerville, and Wakefield provided station coverage. Everett Mayor Carlo De-Maria. "I am grateful for all the staff who work hard to make this event possible each year and to the young people for their willingness to engage with us."

"The Metro Mayors Community Safety Initiative is critical to steering young people across our region away from violence, " said Chelsea City Manager Tom Ambrosino, who also serves as Chair of the Metropolitan Mayors Coalition. "It's always a pleasure to see the youth in the region come together for this tournament. The relationships we saw on display among youth, coaches, and mentors from different cities in the region remind us of the great progress we have made in this region since the start of the Shannon Grant."

"When people ask me what's one of the best ways we can continue to move our communities forward, I always respond that it's through partnerships especially like the ones on display at the 2023 Shannon Basketball Tournament. During this event, we had elected officials, police, and recreation department officials come together to support our youth and I am certain that relationships were formed as a result that will carry forward," said Malden Mayor Gary Christenson. "Of course, events like these don't happen on their own. Rather, there needs to be a catalyst and that was just what the Metropolitan Area Planning Council was, by organizing and administering this great event."

The annual basketball tournament has been held since 2009 to bring together youth, law enforcement, and community-based organizations involved in the Metro Mayors Shannon Grant Community Safety Initiative, which is a state-funded program that supports regional approaches to combating gang violence through law enforcement, job training, and after school programs. The tournament is hosted in a different community each summer, and brings together more than 100 youth in a fun, friendly competition.

Department's (BPD) 44th commissioner on August 15 on City Hall Plaza.

On July 13, Mayor Michelle Wu announced that Cox, a Boston native, was selected to be the next BPD commissioner. Cox had served for 30 years on the BPD before becoming the Chief of Police in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Retired BPD Superintendent Lisa Holmes hosted the swearing-in ceremony, and an invocation was provided by Pastor Arthur T. Gerald, Jr. The benediction was provided by Father John Connolly.

Wu began her remarks by talking about her first conversation with Cox, which she said she does not recall. It was during her first City Council campaign on a softball field in West Roxbury, where Cox was "just a dad watching his kid's softball game,' Wu said.

"The first real conversation that we had, that I remember, was during the interview for this job, and immediately, I had a feeling settle in my chest that we might have done the impossible."

Wu said that she had been told it was "impossible" to find a commissioner that had everything the community and the selection committee was looking for.

"But at the end of the day, Michael Cox is used to proving that more is possible," she said.

She continued, "I am proud that today, a boy from going to serve as the commissioner of the Boston Police Department; first and finest in the country." Wu said that during her nine months in office, she has "already seen the incredible range of what our BPD officers are called to do day in and day out," and that the goal is to ensure all Boston communities are included.

During his remarks, Cox praised Wu and her leadership, as well as her "commitment" to the city's residents. He also thanked former police commissioners and his family.

"To come home and be able to lead in this department in this city, to come to a place where I grew up, where I was raised, where I was an officer, where I raised my family; this is an incredible opportunity," he said. "And with all great opportunities comes great responsibility, and I look forward to making sure I live up to that responsibility."

He continued, "Those in law enforcement enter policing to serve the community, but we have to reimagine how we do that in the world we're living in today. We have to actively engage with the community, because in order for us to be successful, that's the path to get there."

When Cox was announced as the new commissioner last month, he spoke of community inclusion and getting feedback from the community in his remarks. He said he feels it's important to listen to the residents of Boston and what they need from the police department.

On Monday, he reiterated that sentiment and said that the department aims to support its officers and other members of the department by providing the tools they require "to be successful and safe."

Additionally, he said that the BPD will "hold each member of the department accountable for what we ask them to do. Most importantly, we will support them as they meet the community where they

Cox said that during the selection process when the city held community listening sessions, the majority of feedback indicated that residents want "transparency, accountability, procedural justice, [and] equity and inclusion."

He said, "in our path forward, these will be the heart of everything that we're going to try to do with the police depart-

As one of the oldest cities in the country, Cox said that Boston's police department "has, from time to time, failed..." but has gotten back up and looked for ways to move ahead. "We are in a different time right now, and I'mm quite confident that we will meet the challenge ahead of us," Cox said.

In July, Cox said that he was a "victim of unconstitutional policing" in 1995, but still remained a member of the police force because he wanted to make a difference.

The Associated Press reported that in 1995, Cox was working undercover as a plainclothes officer in the BPD's gang unit. Cox was about to grab a shooting suspect, the article reports, when he was "struck from behind." The article continues, "he was kicked and punched by fellow officers, suffering head injuries and kidney damage."

The article also said that an injury report states that Cox slipped on ice, "causing him to fall and crack his head."

Cox said, "I worked to change policing since that incident occurred, and I will continue to do all I can do to make sure that no Black or Brown person, or any individual, no matter what their gender identity or race, is a victim of any kind of unconstitutional policing."

He praised the work of BPD officers and said that "this is a day full of hope. We're going to try to reimagine the police. We're going to be better, we're going to be stronger, we're going to build off the strengths of every individual that works there, both sworn and civilian.'

Cox was optimistic in his remarks and expressed his belief in the department and in the City of Boston.

"As we move forward, we promise that we're going to try to be truly equitable and inclusive," he said. "We'll work to ensure that the department looks like the communities we serve, so we can always police in a community-friendly

SAFETY COMMUNITY FORUM PROVIDES VITAL INFORMATION AS NEW ACADEMIC YEAR BEGINS

REVERE - The Revere School Safety Community Forum, held Aug. 12 at the West Revere School Complex, was an informative event that gave parents an in-depth look at how the City of Revere, Revere school officials, the Revere Police Department, and the Revere Fire Department are working as a team to keep the school community safe in the coming 2022-23 academic year.

Revere Police Chief David Callahan, in his initial remarks, addressed the serious topic that is on the minds of parents across the

"These are difficult conversations to have, but it's reality," said Callahan. "I understand the concern people have. Columbine [High School] was one of the first mass active shooter incidents that happened, and it changed a lot of things – how we looked at them, how we reacted, how the police trained to react to those situations, and we'll continue to do that

The forum had been advertised as 60 minutes in length, but it continued for 90 minutes, and the content was so well presented by the panel and moderated by Assistant Supt. of Schools Dr. Richard Gallucci, it really becomes a mustwatch event for everyone associated with the schools considering the recent incidents in school districts nationally. Revere TV, led by Executive Director Bob Dunbar, videotaped the forum for broadcast. Mayor Brian go opened the forum by thanking officials - School Committee members Susan Gravellese and Aisha Milbury-Ellis and City Councillors Patrick Keefe and Anthony Cogliandro for their attendance.

Arrigo said the city, schools and public safety leaders are taking a proactive, preventative approach to prevent critical incidents in the schools.

"Everyone understands that we're being proactive - that's a theme you'll hear tonight," said Arrigo, who as mayor is chair of the School Committee. "We have the best people in uniform who are in charge of public safety. We have unbelievable people who live and breathe making sure that we are all safe. And our school resource officers are the lifeblood of school safety."
